

GERMAN LINE SAGS AS YANKS STRIKE

UNIONS CLAIM
WAGES UNDER
65c TOO LOWSENATE COMMITTEE
HEARS WITNESSES
CALLED BY CIO

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Union officials and workers today supported proposed legislation to declare wages of less than 65 cents an hour sub-standard, but a business leader opposed it.

The CIO presented a number of witnesses before a Senate labor subcommittee, including John Vernon, middle-aged textile worker of Danville, Va., who described the difficulties of supporting a family on 51½ cents an hour.

The day's final witness, Roland Rice, general counsel for the American Trucking Association, opposed the resolution. He said the net result would be a 20 percent increase in trucking firms' wage bills—a boost which he said would seriously affect the industry, which employed 3,500,000 persons. If Congress adopts the resolution, Rice urged that the trucking industry be exempt.

Vernon, dressed in a worn blue suit, told the Senate labor subcommittee on wartime health and education that he used to have a better job as a weaver in the plant where he had worked 25 years. He was demoted, he said, when the company asked him to tend 60 looms instead of 43 and he refused.

Borrowers Dress For Trip

Mrs. Ruth Decker of Elwood, Ind., testified that she had to borrow the green dress she was wearing and that the other employees at the canning factory where she is employed chipped in to buy her a hat to wear to Washington.

She said she makes 50 cents an hour, but that she and her husband are unable to support their family properly even though he is working too.

Mrs. Christine Gardner, Negro tobacco plant worker from Winston-Salem, N. C., cried as she told of the death of her baby, which she ascribed to inadequate medical care, and said her husband's big ambition was to buy her a nice Christmas present and himself a suit of clothes.

Mrs. Hugh Littleton, who works in a Salisbury, Md., shirt factory, said she had had 18 years experience and was earning 50 cents an hour. If the wage were increased, she said, she might be able to afford a tonsil operation and quit wearing paper in the soles of her shoes.

Earlier CIO officials had submitted voluminous testimony supporting the bill, which was introduced by Pepper.

Emil Rieve, CIO vice president, contended that if a downward wage spiral were allowed to get underway with a contraction of production at the end of the war, the result would be "another national calamity."

General Helps Out
In Liquor Lifting

Lansing, Nov. 17 (AP)—Hey, Joe, you shoulda been there. The general was doing his own lifting—and heavy.

Along with other office employees of the state liquor control commission, Brig. Gen. Louis A. Kunzig, commission business manager, pitched in last night to unload 13 railroad cars of whiskey at the warehouse here. Kunzig retired from the army early this year.

He said the commission couldn't hire enough workers for the job and risked a railroad embargo unless the cars were unloaded by Saturday.

MANILA BATTLE
REPORT ISSUEDSix U. S. Naval Vessels
Lost; Damaged Craft
Returned To Duty

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Navy reported today on the Philippines battle which cost the Japanese more than 60 warships and said that some damaged American craft already have returned to duty.

Summing up the furious Oct. 22-27 battle in the longest naval campaign of the war, the department identified six American ships lost in action, including the light carrier Princeton. This sinking had been announced previously.

The six ships lost: The Princeton; two escort carriers—the Saint Lo and Gambier Bay; two destroyers—the Johnston and Hoel; one destroyer escort—the Samuel B. Roberts.

"A few lesser craft" also were reported lost.

The number of damaged American vessels were not disclosed, the navy said, for security reasons.

After announcing the American ship losses, the communique said: "Against this, the Japanese definitely lost two battleships, four carriers, six heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, and an undetermined number of destroyers.

These ships were seen to go down. So severely damaged that they may have sunk before reaching port, and in any event removed from action for from one to perhaps six months, were one Japanese battleship, three heavy cruisers, two light cruisers and seven destroyers. In addition, damaging hits were noted on six battleships, four heavy cruisers, one light cruiser and ten destroyers."

Cult Queen Hears
Ghosts Of Hitler
Plead For Peace

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—Two distinct "visions" of Hitler appearing from the grave with a plea to stop the war has convinced "Queen" Mary Purnell, who with the late "King" Benjamin Purnell founded the House of David, that Hitler is dead.

Francis Thorpe, chief of staff of Mary's City of David and a pioneer member of the cult, said the "queen" was much affected by her alleged experience.

The first "vision," Thorpe said, occurred July 20 when the "queen" told Thorpe and other trusted advisors that while she was alone she felt a presence "which she could not see with the natural eye but she knew instinctively it was Hitler who she said spoke as follows: 'Don't worry, no harm shall come to you. . . . The war will be soon over. . . .'"

The "vision" reappeared the evening of the same day, Thorpe said, and repeated an entreaty to "stop the war." Mary said the Hitler "visions" appeared humble and remorseful.

Lansing Graft Case
Defendants Free On
Bonds For Appeals

Lansing, Nov. 17 (AP)—Seventeen of 20 respondents today were granted leave by the supreme court to appeal their circuit court convictions of charges of participating graft conspiracy.

The court allowed the release of the 17 on bond of $4,000 each. Three of the 17 already have started serving their sentences. The court previously had granted another of the defendants, former State Senator Charles C. Digs, Detroit Democrat, leave to appeal. He is at liberty on bond.

Former State Rep. Stanley J. Dombrowski of Detroit, serving 3½ to 15 years on a perjury conviction before he was sentenced, also on the conspiracy charge, did not ask leave to appeal. Court attaches said a separate ruling would be made on the application of Rep. Walter N. Stockfish, Hamtramck, for leave to appeal. He and Dombrowski are Democrats.

Those granted leave to appeal today are:

Finance company officials: John E. Hancock, assistant vice president and Detroit branch manager of Associates Discount Corporation of South Bend, Ind.; George Omacht, general counsel of Associates Investment Corporation of South Bend and Abraham Cooper of Detroit, president of the Union Investment Company.

State senators: Leo J. Wilkowski, Democrat, of Detroit, and Jerry T. Logie, Republican, of Bay City.

Former state senators: D. Stephen Benzie, of Norway; William A. Bradley and Ernest B. Nagel, of Detroit; and Henry F. Shea, of Calumet and Lansing, all Democrats.

Former state representatives: William G. Buckley, Earl C. Gallagher, Joseph L. Kaminski, Joseph J. Kowalski, Martin A. Kronk, Francis J. Nowak, Adam W. Sumeracki, and Edward J. Walsh, of Detroit, Democrats.

Buckley, Wilkowski and Nowak are in prison, having surrendered while their motions were pending. The supreme court order allows their release in bond if they choose to post it.

The next step will be the filing of the record of their trial in Ingham county circuit court last summer on charges that the finance company respondents and the legislative group conspired in 1939 to distort the form of legislation affecting the fortunes of the companies, and that an exchange of bribes was a factor in the conspiracy.

Turn In Deer Hides,
Government Urges

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The government appealed to hunters today to help the war effort by turning in the hides of any deer bagged this season.

The War Production board and the Interior department said that deer hide leather is the only type that proved suitable for such items as high altitude flying gloves.

ISHAN, WALLED
CITY IN CHINA,
HELD BY JAPSNIPPONESE THRUST
AIMS AT CAPITAL,
CHUNGKING

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Nov. 17 (AP)—Japanese forces captured the walled city of Ishan, 43 miles northwest of fallen Luichow, and pushed up the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway in an apparent thrust toward Kweichow province and the provisional capital of Chungking, the Chinese high command announced today.

A military spokesman denied rumors that Chinese authorities had ordered evacuation of non-essential civilians from Kweichow, capital of Kweichow province, some 140 miles northwest of Ishan.

Some observers expressed belief that the Japanese intended to invade Kweichow, while others held that the drive to Ishan was merely a feint and that the invaders actually planned to link with their forces in French Indo-China via Yunnan (Nanning). Word that the Japanese were pushing on beyond Ishan was viewed with anxiety in both quarters.

By advancing on to Kweichow and capturing that provincial capital the invaders would cut the Burma Road at a point about 200 miles from Chungking.

LITTLE NAHMA
BOY, 3, DROWNSFinding Of Body Ends
Hunt For Missing
Child In Woods

Ten hours of searching for little David Blowers, 3½, of Nahma Junction, ended at 9:45 o'clock last night when the body of the missing boy was found in a water-filled slough hole near the road and about a hundred yards from the Blowers home. The body was found by James Moore of Nahma, Sheriff's officers at the scene expressed a belief that the child may have been playing with a small raft, found nearby, when he fell into the water. The water was about seven feet deep in the hole.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Blowers, was last seen alive on highway U. S. 2 about 11:45 a. m. Friday, after which he disappeared. A hunt was organized, led by state police, conservation officers and sheriff's department officers. The officers were joined by over 150 hunters and men from Nahma.

The searchers conducted a systematic combing of the countryside around Nahma Junction, working on the theory that the lad could have strayed off into the woods. A description of the boy was sent out by the state police in the hope that he might have been picked up by a passing motorist and given a ride.

David Lee Blowers was born on February 14, 1941. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and a sister. They are Harold, Norman and Gail. The body was taken to the Alto funeral home to be prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

STATE ELECTION
FRAUD CHARGED

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Charging "grave mistakes, inefficiency, and in some cases deliberate fraud" in the 17th Michigan congressional election, John Hicks, Democratic candidate, announced today that he will contest the reelection of Rep. George Dondero, Republican candidate in the district.

Hicks, a Detroit lawyer, said that he will ask congress to "impeach the ballot boxes and make a complete investigation" in his effort to show that "Mr. Dondero is not the duly elected congressman from the 17th district."

Specific instances in which ballots were lost, tally sheets were not turned in, and ballot boxes were not properly sealed are included in Hicks' petition. He said he wants only "a fair deal" but stated that he could show many soldier votes lost, and one instance in which a worker took home her tally sheet with about 700 votes on it.

Dondero denied knowledge of Hicks' petition, and said he believed that the Democratic candidate had "no grounds for contesting the result." He stated that to his knowledge the Wayne county ballots were lost only on the presidential contest. "I have never heard a single word of anything wrong, irregular, or fraudulent in the 17th district election."

Tanks Of Third
Army Crash To
Border Of Saar

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Nov. 17. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's six attacking Allied armies, swelled to a fighting force of 1,250,000 men with a similar number in reserve, ground ahead today on scattered sectors of the 400-mile western front in their vast winter push toward Berlin.

The U. S. Third army, loosing its armored might across the Moselle north of embattled Metz for the first time, sent tanks charging five miles east to little more than two miles from the edge of the Saar basin—important source of Germany's war might—as infantry swung north to within a mile of the junction of the German, Luxembourg and French borders.

Gestapo Bars Escape

Third army doughboys tightened the screws on Metz, pushing to within a mile of the fortress city at two places on the south and at another on the north, but prisoners said the garrison was preparing a stand to the death with Gestapo guns barring escape roads to the east.

The U. S. First army's infantry and tanks to the north churned another two miles into Germany, capturing several towns and rolling up within six miles of bomb-blackened Duren—a point which a front dispatch placed only 23 miles short of the Rhine and 14 miles inside the Reich.

The U. S. Ninth army, now disclosed to be part of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th army group, in its drive synchronized with the First's turned back a German counter-attack northeast of Aachen, knocking out at least 11 of the 45 Tiger and Panther tanks used to lead it.

French Near Belfort

One thousand prisoners were taken in the first 24 hours of fighting but late reports said the Ninth was striking stiffer resistance, and enemy artillery fire was increasing.

The U. S. Seventh army hammered out gains all along its front on the Third army's southern flank from north of Lunelville to

General Motors Offers
To Sell Timber Area
For $476,000

Traverse City, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—General Motors Corporation's offer to sell the "heart" of the Porcupine Mountain area to the state for $476,000 was accepted today by the State Conservation Commission.

P. J. Hoffmaster, conservation director, described the offer as "a very good buy, a reasonable offer."

The offer includes 9,245 acres in land and timber rights, 156 acres of land, timber and mineral rights and 10,435 acres in timber rights.

Hoffmaster said it covered the most rugged part of the mountain area, the major peaks, almost all of the Carp river, Mirror lake, some Lake Superior frontage and mixed hardwood timber which never has been logged.

Thus, the state had moved to secure title to 31,750 acres of the 43,000 acres proposed for the state's "forest museum." The acreage includes 7,000 acres already owned by the state and federal governments and 4,754 owned by the Connor Land and Lumber Company of Leona, Wis., which the state has condemned.

The Connor firm has said it would appeal the condemnation decree.

The General Motors and Connor properties, if the condemnation is upheld, will cost a total of $657,000.

Hoffmaster said he was certain the remaining 12,000 acres, scattered among small owners, could be bought for well within the $1,000,000 appropriation provided by the legislature.

ROAD BLOCKED
BELOW ORMOC
BY AMERICANSU. S. 32ND DIVISION
NOW IN ACTION ON
LEYTE ISLAND

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Saturday, Nov. 18 (AP)—Units of the American 24th Division have established a strong road block on the Ormoc road, four miles south of Carigara bay on Leyte island, completing their double envelopment maneuver around remnants of a Japanese regiment, headquarters reported today.

A communique mentioned the U. S. 32nd Division for the first time in the Philippine campaign, reporting that elements of the force now are deployed in the sector north of the front Japanese line and have driven a deep wedge into isolated enemy strongpoints.

This action is swirling south of Limon, key village on the mountain pass road leading from Pinopampayan to the Ormoc corridor. Enemy supply columns attempting to break through the 24th's road block to Limon were destroyed, the communique said.

Suicide Charges Crushed

East of Ormoc road, action in mountain fighting around the Mt. Minor-Badian area was limited to mopping up of enemy pockets by the dismounted First Cavalry and elements of the 24th Division.

Several suicide charges by enemy parties were wiped out, while American artillery continued to pound Japanese positions throughout the corridor.

The American 7th Division repulsed an enemy attack at Tabgas, 11 miles south of Ormoc, the final goal of the current Yank squeeze. This is the third assault smashed by the 7th on the coastal road leading to Ormoc, including the repulsion of a landing attempt.

Leyte-based fighter planes attacked enemy small craft on the west coast and bombed shore installations south of Ormoc.

Approximately 30 Japanese planes attacked American ground installations in the Dulag area, near the island's east coast. They were intercepted by Yank patrols and 15 shot down in aerial combat, with three more falling to anti-aircraft fire.

"Our losses were negligible," the communique said.

Spying Eliminated

Capture of strategic Limon, where the Japanese have blocked access to their retreat road to Ormoc, appeared imminent today after rain drenched American doughboys fought within 1,000 yards of the bitterly contested village of Leyte island.

One American force, elements of the 24th Infantry Division, approached Limon from the west and was within about half a mile of the town, reported AP Correspondent Fred Hampson. He is with the 24th Division.

Occupation of the Mapia islands, off the coast of northwest New Guinea, proceeded satisfactorily. Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that Pegu, the first of the island group to be invaded Wednesday, had been completely occupied. His forces then spilled over to adjoining Bras island, where enemy remnants were being eliminated.

CHICAGO HUNTER LOST IN WOODS

Search LaBranche Area
Since Thursday For
John Hubert, 60

Search for John Hubert, 60, Chicago deer hunter, lost since 4 o'clock Thursday in the LaBranche area about 16 miles west of Escanaba, was continued yesterday by conservation department officers. Menominee county sheriff's officers and volunteers from the area.

Hubert became separated Thursday afternoon from his hunting companion, T. D. Lawrence of Faunus, and had not been reported seen since. District Supervisor D. H. Raess of the conservation department reported yesterday evening.

The area in which Hubert was last seen is a wilderness of thick swamps and ridges. Thursday night the temperature dropped to 33 degrees and the weather continued cold yesterday and last night.

Hubert was the first hunter to be reported lost in the Delta-Menominee conservation district so far this season. Supervisor Raess said. So far no hunting accidents have occurred in the district this season.

Four hunters have been arrested since the opening of the season Wednesday for violations of the deer laws. One was in Menominee county, and three were in Delta county. Of the three arrested in this county two were arraigned in justice court at Gladstone, and the third was arraigned before Justice Henry Ranguette in Escanaba.

In Ranguette's court William Coleman of Belding, Mich., pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to securely attach the seal to a buck he had killed, and paid a fine of $25 and costs. He was arrested on Thursday by conservation officers at the Buckeye headquarters camp in northern Delta county near the Alger county line.

Roosevelt's Cabinet Needs Some Changes

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Office holders seldom resign and never die. My father, who was in Republican politics in a small way in Iowa, used to quote that political aphorism after each election. Office-holding he would add, is the best possible guarantee of longevity.

You can prove that by President Roosevelt's cabinet. Jesse Jones, who is Secretary of Commerce at 70, has been on the executive payroll since 1932. He began before F. D. R. came to Washington, when he was appointed to the RFC Board by Herbert Hoover.

Cordell Hull is 73. Come next March, he will have been Secretary of State for 12 years. He first held public office in 1893, when he was elected to the Tennessee Legislature. Except for a two-year interval, he's been in public office nearly half a century.

When March 4 rolls around, Frances Perkins will have been Secretary of Labor for 12 years. Most people would say the last five or six years shouldn't count, since she's been only nominally in charge of labor relations. But anyway, she's had the title and the salary. Miss Perkins, if it's not too impolite to mention a lady's age, is 62.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., will have had 11 years as Secretary of the Treasury on January 1. Before that, he was governor of the Farm Credit Administration. Compared to the other veterans, he is a baby of 53.

Still another veteran, and one who was most conspicuous in the recent campaign, is Harold L. Ickes, completing his twelfth year as Secretary of the Interior and official curmudgeon and vituperator extraordinary. He is a month younger than Jesse Jones, having been born on March 15, 1871.

F. D. R. is "Tender-Hearted" It must be said for Ickes, however, that of this persistent company, he alone has had the good grace to offer his resignation to the president. I strongly suspect that Ickes wants to set an example to his colleagues around the cabinet table, so that the president would have an opportunity to make a clean sweep if he should want to.

His example has not thus far, however, had any marked influence on the others around that table. They seem at this moment to be very busy, so busy they can't stop to think about the quaint custom of submitting resignations after an election.

That custom is a sound one. It should be observed regardless of whether there is a change in administration. President Roosevelt is tender-hearted—too tender-hearted, as circumstances have repeatedly proved. He will not ask for the resignation of these friends who have been around him for so long.

But I feel certain that if some regretful letters of resignation came from his cabinet, the president would write in reply the most regretful acceptances. They would have all those rich, warm Roosevelt overtones, but the recipients would have no doubt that they were free to follow their own pursuits.

One of Governor Dewey's strongest points in his campaign was the need for new life in Washington. His attacks on the "tired, quarrelsome old men" struck home.

An Occupational Disease Prolonged officeholding, particularly here in the capital, which is more or less insulated from the rest of the country, induces an occupational disease. One of the symptoms of that disease is the bickering jealousy to which Dewey referred frequently in his campaign speeches.

Both Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal are newcomers. They took office, Forrestal first as Under Secretary of the Navy, with the war. I doubt very much that the president would have any changes in these departments, which have proved their efficiency.

There are dusty niches at which he must look, however, with a certain impatience. Short of having to commit Mayhem, he ought to be given a chance at the beginning of his fourth term to do some picking and choosing.

Goulais, 711 South Tenth street, Escanaba, Michigan, is currently assigned to the 72nd Fighter Wing Indoctrination Unit at Harding Field, La., prior to being assigned to one of the fighter Combat Crew Training Schools in the Wing for final training in combat tactics of the Army Air Forces.

During his brief stay in the Indoctrination Unit F/O Goulais will be issued the personal equipment which he will use in the ensuing weeks of combat flight training and will undergo the preliminary phase of ground training, including intelligence, small arms, aircraft recognition.

(Special to the Escanaba Daily Press)—William S. Cyr, a resident of Escanaba, has been chosen by the Navy to serve aboard an LSM (Landing Ship, Medium), the Speed Carrier of Attack that has been especially developed for Pacific duty.

Now stationed at the Amphibious Training Base in Little Creek, Virginia, St. Cyr is going through the rigorous training program to prepare for duty as Boatswain's Mate on the swift new invasion.

The amphibious ship on which the Escanaba bluejacket will serve has been designed with a shallow draft that enables it to negotiate the coral reefs of the Pacific Islands. It crosses the ocean with its cargo of tanks and machines and discharges them onto enemy-held shores over its landing-ramp bow.

St. Cyr was employed by a Great Lakes ferry boat company before he joined the Navy in June this year.

He is a former student of Escanaba High school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. St. Cyr who reside at 1514 South Seventh Avenue.

Cpl. Donald S. Breault, son of Frank Breault, 1809 Ludington street, is a surgical patient at the post hospital, Camp Breckinridge, Ky., where he is stationed.

Pvt. Leonard W. Winling, Jr., of Pine Ridge, is now stationed somewhere on the Lido Road, in India according to letters received by his wife and by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Winling, sr., of Pine Ridge. The letters were the first received from him in nine weeks.

Pvt. Forest J. DeMille, of the United States Marines, has arrived safely at a foreign destination, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul DeMille, of Perronville, have been advised. Pvt. DeMille entered the service on May 17, and received his training at the Marine Base at San Diego. He was last home on furlough in July.

Staff Sgt. Bon Cousineau of this city and Cpl. Stanley Cousineau, of Munising, brothers of Mrs. Sadie Lemirand of 216 Stephenson Avenue, are both in Belgium. Mrs. Lemirand has learned in letters from them, but, thus far, have not met. Sgt. Bon Cousineau has been overseas for three years and his brother has been in foreign service for a year.

Pfc. Fred Plouff of Flat Rock, who is with the armed forces in Italy, in a letter to his sister, Mrs. William Guindon, of Detroit, writes:

"I am in the best of health and still on the same job, getting along very good. We've been quite busy lately, so I don't have much time to write, only at night, and lots of time we're out till late.

"We live in what we can get for shelter and now we're in an old shack. It isn't bad, we cleaned it up, but rats run all over us at night. We have candles and flashlights for light. I tell you here's a boy who is anxious about getting back to live in a house. I tell you it's going to mean a lot to a lot of us when this is over with.

"Now I'll tell you the sunny side. We get plenty to eat, plenty of cigarettes, lately one stick of gum a day, and one small ration candy bar, and lots of clothes."

Pvt. Plouff has been in the service for two years and overseas for eight months. His wife and six-month old daughter, Barbara Agnes, whom he has never seen, live in Flat Rock, and his parents also live there.

Sgt. Isadore Ephrim Guenette of Schaffer has reported for duty at the Air Technical Service Command, Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, and has been assigned to the Medical Detachment. Wright Field is the Air Forces' engineering procurement, maintenance and supply center.

Miami, Beach, Fla., Nov. 16 — T/Sgt. Vernon F. Anderson, 22, of Escanaba, Mich., has arrived at Army Air Forces Redistribution Station No. 2 in Miami Beach for reassignment processing after completing a tour of duty outside the continental United States.

Medical examinations and classification interviews at this post, one of three redistribution stations operated by the AAF Personnel Distribution Command for AAF returnee officers and enlisted men, will determine his new assignment. He will remain here about two weeks, much of which will be devoted to rest and recreation.

Sergeant Anderson is a veteran of 33 months overseas duty in the China-Burma-India theater of operations where he worked as an aircraft armorer on various types of fighter planes. He is the son of Mrs. Leona Anderson, 1417 North 22nd Street, Escanaba.

NEW VEGETABLE

A new vegetable, known as celutec, is being produced for commercial sale in Bermuda. It has a flavor combining that of celery, lettuce and asparagus.

MAY SHIP ONLY DEER CARCASS

Pieces Of Venison May Not Be Sent Out
Of State

Deer carcasses only—not pieces of deer—can be transported or shipped out of the north woods, the conservation department emphasizes. Carcasses must be sealed with the tags supplied with hunting licenses and sex identity must not be destroyed.

The law is cited because many hunters have been informed by food locker and similar establishments that there will be no room to hang whole carcasses this year and that meat must be cut up for storage. Such cutting can be done only after the deer is delivered to the storage place.

All public cold storage establishments where game is stored must be licensed under the pure food laws of the state. Residents may secure permits free of charge from the department to store certain game animals and birds for a period of six months after the legal time allowed for the possession of such game and birds. Such permits are issued only for license-ed establishments and private homes.

Permits are issued for deer, bear, and for all small game animals and birds except ducks. Migratory waterfowl may be possessed for 45 days after the close of the season, December 8. No extensions of time can be granted.

SIX MEN TO GO TO NAVY BASES

Local Tradesmen Will Continue In Own
Work Lines

Six men have been recruited thus far by J. B. Smith, navy representative who has been interviewing and appointing applicants for government positions at navy operating bases that service and help maintain the Pacific fleet.

Walter W. Nelson, machinist from Seney, Mich., Lewis McLeod, electric crane man from Gladstone, and Paul E. Lee, truck driver of Perkins, will go to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

To Brazeau, pipe fitter helper, 321 North Fourteenth street, will go to Pudgett Sound, Bremerton, Wash. Auto mechanic Oscar Johnson, Route 1, Bark River, will report to Kodiak, Alaska, and Gunner Norman, painter, 915 First avenue north, will go to Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

These recruits, who will continue doing work in their particular lines, will leave within the next ten days.

Hermansville

Receives Purple Heart

Hermansville—Mrs. Shirley Poquette of Detroit has received the Purple Heart which was awarded her husband, Pvt. Clifford Poquette, posthumously. Pvt. Poquette was killed in France July 26. He was formerly a resident of Spalding. Mrs. Poquette is visiting at the Clarence Limpert home here.

Mill Shuts Down

The portable mill owned and operated by Walter Mueller and Carl Steinbrecher which for the past few months has been saving dead logs from the pond close operations Tuesday for the winter season. They plan to resume operations in the spring as soon as conditions permit to remove the logs from the pond.

Shoot Bucks

Robert MacEachern, Matt Lacroisiere, George Maull and Jack Bell were lucky deer hunters who shot their bucks early Wednesday morning. The hunters report plenty of deer in the woods.

Russel Sargent of Spalding called on friends here Tuesday.

Albert Picard of Oconto was a visitor here Tuesday.

Peter Dani of Gwinn is here for the hunting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Raiche of Ecorse are here for the hunting season.

Mrs. Peter Polazzo and daughter, Audrey, of Ann Arbor are visiting at the home of her father, Dominic Cabanca.

St. Nicholas

St. Nicholas—Duane Vandenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Vandenburg submitted to an operation for removal of tonsils at the Gladstone clinic on Saturday of last week.

Mrs. Anna Perohonen, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Heirman of Manistique, for a visit at the Alphonse Heirman home Sunday.

Pfe. Walfred Lindberg of Dayton, Ohio is spending a two-weeks furlough with his wife at the Dona Barron home.

Pvt. Carl Brannstrom, who was recently inducted into the army, is with the engineers and is stationed at Camp Landing, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Miron and Elmer Dugas of Perkins, were dinner guests of Miss Louise Miron on Wednesday.

Frank DeGrand and Lucille and Andrew DeGrand of Cornell, spent Sunday visiting at the Henry Lachapelle home and with other relatives. Mr. DeGrand is the father of Mrs. Lachapelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Depuydt of Duluth, Minn., arrived Sunday evening for a visit with Mr. Depuydt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pamphil Depuydt.

Frank DeGrand of Cornell, visited Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Constant Vermote. Frank DeGrand is the great-grandfather of Barbara Ann, 3-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vermote.

Kipling

Party Tuesday Night

Kipling—The P. T. A. of Kipling will sponsor a public party Tuesday night, Nov. 21st at the Kipling Hall. Games will be played and prizes awarded the winners. The public is invited. Lunch will be served.

Danny and Dickie Cowell of Days River have been confined to their home because of illness.

War Fund Canvass

During the past week a canvass was made for donations for the War Fund. Many people had previously donated to the Township in which they were employed, so the canvass was not what was anticipated.

Over 60 pupils and teachers of the Kipling school thoroughly enjoyed the opening of the Hot Lunch program, Monday Nov. 13th. Last year the hot lunches were not started until after Christmas. Due to so many children having to ride the school bus the P. T. A. deemed it advisable to start earlier this season.

Funds derived from parties sponsored throughout the year provide for part of the expense of the program. The balance is taken care of by state funds.

Iron or steel plants are located in 28 states of the Union.

With The Deer Hunters . . .

Sgt. Lee T. Borden, of Perronville, took advantage of his furlough to kill a 175 pound, 10-point buck near Round Lake Wednesday, opening day of season. He was hunting at the Powers camp.

Pvt. Kenneth Botwright, who is spending a furlough from Camp Blanding, Florida at his home, 936 Stephenson avenue, killed a 200 pound, 10-point buck Thursday morning near the Whitefish.

Gilbert Leadman, Muskegon, filled his license with a 150 pound deer that he killed near Stonington at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Melvin A. Trams shot a 9 point buck on opening day. This is the first deer that she has bagged after 4 years of hunting. Mr. and Mrs. Trams are at the Leslie Caswell's camp on the Hay Meadow Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Brackett left last night for Leslie Caswell's Camp. They will stay there until Sunday night.

Oliver Lund, 205 South Twenty-third street, shot a 165-pound, eight-point buck at 18-Mile Lake Thursday. Lund was hunting at his camp in company with Walter Carlson and Bill Eckmeyer.

Alex Young of Dearborn got a 162-pound buck, with eight points, on the first day of hunting season at Northland. He was hunting with Pat Nadon, Detroit, Gene Marenger, Fred Marenger, Clyde Lancour and Ed Marenger, Flat Rock.

Fair Store Workers Hold Annual Party

The fifty-sixth anniversary supper was held on the second floor at the Fair Store from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening. The program was impromptu with department heads and older employees speaking briefly.

Charles Gessner announced the sales contest winners and awarded prizes at the annual party. The eight individual prize winners and their awards were: first, A. D. Laviolette, who is the oldest employee in point of service, having worked with the concern 41 years, a trip to Chicago; second, Mrs. Laura Fulcher, $25 war bond; third, Mrs. Mae Krueger, $10 merchandise certificate; fourth, Gehart Sivertsen, $7.50 certificate; fifth, C. E. Rolfe, $5 certificate; sixth, Mrs. Marie Smith, $5 certificate; seventh, Mrs. Viola Moore, $3.50 certificate; and eighth, Mrs. Catherine Vargo, $3.50 certificate.

Thirty-three additional winners of the inter-department contest received prizes.

SCHOOL ISSUES TO BE STUDIED

Upper Peninsula Leaders
Meet Monday At Marquette

Important problems facing Michigan schools will be discussed at a meeting of upper peninsula education leaders Monday at the Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette. The meeting is sponsored jointly by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, the Michigan Education Association and the National Education Association.

Principal matters for discussion will be pending state and federal legislation affecting the schools. Dr. R. B. Marston, director of the legislative and federal relations division of the N. E. A., will discuss the distribution to schools of the war surplus materials, the administration of the school lunch program, the G. I. bill of rights pertaining to education, and the universal military training proposal.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, will discuss reorganization proposals, recommendations of the Michigan Education study commission, state aid for school building construction and educational values in the army training program.

Dr. A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the M. E. A., will discuss the current survey of school needs, the retirement legislation, and the Michigan tax system, with special emphasis upon the 15-mill proposal.

Arrangements for a good attendance from his area are being handled by C. P. Titus, Delta county commissioner of schools, who is assistant field director of region 7, M. E. A.

The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock Monday morning and A. E. Erickson, superintendent of schools at Ironwood, will act as conference chairman.

Has Some Merit

REPUBLICAN members of the state senate plan to start the ball rolling in their pre-session caucus on Nov. 29 toward a constitutional amendment to permit a four-year term for the governor and other important state officers.

This proposal has been discussed quite often in Michigan, and there is considerable merit in it. A two-year term is hardly long enough time for the state officers to become well established in their offices. Just about the time they have learned the ropes they have to think about the problem of winning the next election.

A four-year term would make for more governmental efficiency for the official's actions would be less prompted by political considerations. The holding of elections entails considerable expense to the taxpayers, and the four-year term proposal would be achieving something in cutting the election costs in half.

While the state legislature is considering this matter, it might be well for the national lawmakers to give serious study to the six-year presidential term. A single six-year term for the nation's chief executive would eliminate much of the politics from the White House. It would certainly remove much of the bitterness that has marred the last two political campaigns in which President Roosevelt successfully sought third and fourth terms. There would be less fear of political dictatorship in democratic America.

Much Low Grade Ore

POSSIBLE extinction of the high grade iron ore supply in the Lake Superior region within one or two decades after the end of World War II may prove to be a blessing in disguise for some Upper Michigan and Minnesota communities, after all.

An Associated Press story points out there is enough taconite and other low grade ore in the region to last 500 years. The day will come when the nation's iron and steel industries will have to utilize this ore. Since more of it will have to be mined and shipped to obtain each ton of useable metal, there likely will be more persons employed in the industry, unless technological advances obviate the necessity for additional employment.

The state of Minnesota is deeply interested in the possibilities of the utilization of taconite, of which it has an almost unlimited supply. Minnesota authorities sometime ago requested an appropriation of $5,000,000 from WPB for erection of concentration plants to demonstrate its feasibility, but the federal agency declined, explaining it would not be practical in wartime.

When the high grade ore supply is exhausted, however, it will be practical, through sheer necessity, to utilize the low grade stuff, and then there will likely be renewed activity in many Michigan and Minnesota areas where mines were closed because of the low quality of the ore.

Discouraging Surplus

COMMERCIAL fishermen are showing less interest this year in the herring runs, which are just getting under way in Lake Michigan and Lake Superior.

The annual production of herring in the Great Lakes is about twenty million pounds, and more than half of this amount is caught during the in-shore spawning runs in Lake Superior during November and early December. The Lake Michigan herring harvest is only an inconsequential portion of the total.

During the late fall runs, herring are caught in much greater amounts than the fresh fish market can consume. As a result, several million pounds are normally frozen, salted and smoked so that they can be stored for future sale.

Last fall, a large quantity of herring was fresh-frozen for it was expected that the government would buy heavily for the feeding of the armed forces. This did not materialize, however, and now the freezers in Duluth, Green Bay, Chicago and elsewhere have the largest inventory of frozen herring in the history of the industry. Wholesale fishermen, consequently, are not likely to buy much herring this season for freezing.

It's the old economic law of supply and demand at work again.

Pass The Ammunition

FIRST it was airplanes, tanks and then lumber, but now artillery and ammunition are the materials that are running short of the need for the successful prosecution of the war by the Allies.

The new shortage has become so acute that General Eisenhower has deemed it necessary to make a broadcast on a nationwide hook-up next Sunday to tell the American people how serious the matter really is. Experience has shown that airplane bombing alone cannot do the job of demolishing and capturing cities and other military objectives. In certain instances, it has been artillery and the foot-by-foot advance of the infantry. All this has required the use of much ammunition. In fact, the consumption is much greater than the current rate of production.

Underlying reasons for the shortages are that many persons have become war-weary, have quit their jobs in shell-making plants for non-military production jobs, and have generally relaxed their efforts. But if this war is to be won in the shortest possible time and the minimum loss of fighting men, the workers on the home front will have to "pass the ammunition" with increased rate during the remaining crucial months.

More Trouble

LATEST evidence of trouble brewing within Germany is the capture of documents revealing that the Nazis had ordered soldiers to shoot all officers who exhibit the slightest decline in morale. The order was attributed to Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo leader, who now appears to be the No. 1 man with the fading of Hitler from the German scene. It indicates that probably too many army officers have been surrendering to the advancing Allied forces of late. It also reveals that friction between the Nazi party men and the old Junkers military leaders still exists.

The army is still putting up fierce resistance, but there are signs that Germany is disintegrating at the core. However, there is one disturbing possibility. All these evidences of the weakening of Germany could have been trumped up by Propaganda Minister Goebbels to induce the Allied people to relax their war efforts on the home front. It is better to consider the war as not being over until Germany and Japan actually lay down their arms.

Other Editorial Comments

RUTHLESS FORESTRY (Milwaukee Journal)

Here are two reports on lumber cutting in widely separated areas of the United States, as printed in the Atlanta Journal and the Portland Oregonian:

The Atlanta Journal: "National forests in the southern region . . . showed a 60 per cent gain in volume of timber cut over their own summer quarter average for the three previous years."

The Oregonian: "While there were 20 mills buzzing away (near Tacoma) not so many years ago, there are only six now and they are reported to be short of logs at times."

The southern timber cut increase, be it noted, was in the national forests, operated by the federal forest service, under a system of selective cutting and a restoration program.

The Oregon and other west coast operations were conducted in forests of private owners, whose interest for years had been in "getting out the logs," not in preserving or restoring forest growth.

The result, according to the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, in a discussion of postwar prospects, is that "our lumber cut will be 65 per cent less than after the last war." These forests, because of the waste of past years, are not standing up under the war demands that must be met now.

The result in the south is that the post-war cut will be, or can be, at least 60 per cent greater on the federal tracts.

Percentages, of course, are not conclusive unless all related facts are measured against them. But it seems that under careful forest management in southern areas—which includes preservation of immature timber and restoration of cutover areas—production is increasing. Under "old-time" methods of ruthless harvesting in Oregon and Washington, forests decline.

Can there be any doubt which method Wisconsin must apply if it is to retain and restore its forests?

The melancholy days are here, the saddest of the year. The heavies are too heavy and the lights too light, we fear.

Take My Word For it . . . Frank Colby

COLBY, YOU'RE WRONG! Houston: Recently you said, "All glamour girls are not exotic." You should have said, "Not all glamour girls are exotic."—J. J. S.

Answer: You're right, I'm wrong. That was a lapsus calami; but I do know better. In one of my recent books I discuss the usage thus:

"All men are not subject to the draft." No, for "all men" includes every man, and some men, of course, are subject to conscription. Better say: Not all men are subject to the draft.

Wrong: "Everyone is not buying war bonds." Untrue, for some of us are buying them. Right: Not everyone is buying war bonds.

Wrong: "Every American is not patriotic." Not true, for "every American" means "all Americans" without exception, and, fortunately, most Americans are deeply patriotic. Right: Not every American is patriotic.

Redlands: Please give the rule governing "don't" and "doesn't"—J. O. G.

Answer: These two contractions will not confuse us if we remember that they stand for "do not" and "does not." Therefore, "don't" is used only with I, you, and they, as: I don't; you don't; they don't. Likewise, "doesn't" is proper only with he, she, and it, as: He doesn't; she doesn't; it doesn't.

A. Is "loan" a good verb?—J. M. H.

Q. It is now accepted. But it is still better usage to employ "loan" as a noun only, and use "lend, lending, lent" as the verb forms, as: Lend me your book; I am lending him my book; I lent him my book.

World Events Analyzed

BY LESLIE BAIN
ADVANCED ALLIED FORCES HEAD-QUARTERS, November 14.—Meet the Boss. His full name is General Sir Harold C. Alexander, and his title is Commander-in-Chief of Allied Forces in Italy. The man will fool you every time unless you take a good look at him, for he is like the new-fangled steel we are using—smooth, slick and light but tough and hard when put under pressure. He almost fooled me too—this suave, pleasant, graceful Englishman with a nice, soft, cultured voice and a terrific sense of humor. But you can't be in the same room with him for two hours, listening to his explanation of the Italian campaign without realizing that there is much more to Sir Harold than meets the eye.

There is a curious mixture of caution and boldness in Gen. Alexander. He said, in answer to a question concerning the probable length of the war, that he never guesses—only calculates. Yet this is the same man who dreamed up a couple of tricky surprises for the Nazis and admittedly is very fond of the "double punch" as he calls the good old one-two of the prize ring. And, for good measure, he modestly acknowledged that luck has helped him out of a number of tight spots. On the other hand, he notes carefully every detail of a strategic plan to calculate its effectiveness and, what is more important, its cost. He freely admitted that the fight around Cassino was expensive—but then he went on to show that it would have been far more costly had any other plan been adopted.

—USES COMMERCIAL TERMS—

Incidentally, I noticed his fondness for commercial terms when discussing the war. Using terms like "paying dividends," "counting the investment," "expensive" and "inexpensive" was his way of trying to cover up his role of a military hero. To call him that, I suspect, would annoy him no end, for he is really modest—not in an affected way so common among the great—but he is simple, honest and sincere. Discussing his opponent, Kesselring, he gave a very fair appraisal of his qualities and shortcomings as a military commander, and I venture to say, he would be just as fair and unbiased if he were called upon to describe himself. For instance, when he spoke of the scantiness of his forces at one stage of the campaign, he suddenly stopped as though realizing what he was saying might sound too much like an alibi and he quickly added, "Of course a general is never satisfied with what he has—he always wants more of everything."

Sir Harold has a delightful sense of humor besides being a formidable raconteur. When in the mood, he really sparkles. He has the ability to keep an absolutely straight face while saying the most incongruous things. He was describing the various national groups in his army and the difficulties such a many-tongued command entails. He went on to say in all seriousness, "I—but I don't really mind. In fact, I'd rather add some more. I asked for some Russians too but they tell me they are all busy elsewhere."

—CANNOT BE OUTSMARTED—

As I started out to say, Gen. Alexander is not all honey and pie. There is a strong will and a quiet determination behind that smiling face of his. And I suspect him of having a terrific temper when irritated. I would certainly hate to cross him on one of his off days.

As for his ability, Marshal Kesselring must have learned by now that there is no outsmarting Sir Harold Alexander. The rolls with the best Sunday punch the Nazi can deliver and he hits him the moment Kesselring looks the other way. Gen. Alexander may ascribe his successes to luck, but the men under him know that his luck was wrought and sweated right out of his well-groomed head.

You may have gathered by now that I like Sir Harold Alexander. What's more important, I trust him. It was a comforting thing to listen to him and measure the man under whose command so many of our boys are meeting the supreme crises of their lives. I know now that their commander thinks of them constantly, that his great concern is to preserve them and keep them safe. I know also that this quiet Englishman is neither a vain, reckless fame-chaser nor a hesitant, overly-cautious wastrel.

Gen. Alexander said something that has often been discussed in these dispatches—the utter senselessness of the Nazi behavior in Italy. Why Hitler is willing to throw away so many of his sorely needed best divisions in an indecisive battle, is, according to Sir Harold, one of the great mysteries of this war. But as long as Hitler's blunder is our gain—why quarrel?

Gracie Allen Says.

I see by the paper that pre-war girdles are back . . . and not a moment too soon either. The wonderful hospitality and food we enjoyed in Boston are expanding George right out of his old one.

Our radio sponsors gave us a real old-fashioned Irish shindig. Sure, 'twas a bit of the old sod with the beautiful songs and blarney bringing tears to the eyes of the good Boston folks. As usual, George's singing was the hit of the party. That man does a song convincingly. All the Irish agreed that when George sang "My Wild Irish Rose" they could actually smell it.

Now George and I are moving on to sell more war bonds. They tell us to expect rain, sleet and fog on this trip. Pity us poor Californians—we came east for a change.

Good Morning!

SQUIRREL JUICE.—Well, I see by the papers that out in New York state a couple deer hunters, reenacting the exploit of William Tell, used a beer bottle instead of an apple for a target. The guy doing the shooting missed the bottle and hit the guy on whose head the bottle was supported.

You probably remember the story of William Tell. It was he who, with his bow and arrow, shot an apple from the head of his son to avoid the King and win Tell's lease. The son was a brave little chap who believed implicitly in the precision of his father's marksmanship.

But out in New York state it's a different story. We do not know whether the two hunters were even good friends. It may be possible there was some hidden grudge. But we do know that the hunting party stopped along the road for a little "target practice" and it was there that one of the hunters got his head under the beer bottle and stood patiently while his head was shot out from under it.

No report is made on what happened to the beer bottle, which is too important a factor to overlook. The story would be more complete if we knew whether the beer bottle was full and the hunter empty, or vice versa.

IT DOES HAPPEN.—You've heard about the absent-minded professor, no doubt. Well, it's not only professors who forget things. Take, for instance, the motorist who drove into a gas station the other day and ordered five gallons. New on the job the attendant started filling her up while the customer began rummaging through his pockets for cash and gas stamps. No stamps could he find.

"Hey, stop!" yelled the customer, and explained what his trouble was.

"I'll pay you 21 cents and go home for the coupons, or you put in five gallons and I'll come back with the coupons."

"None," says the attendant. "I'm new here and my orders are strict. I don't want the OPA on my neck, Give."

So the customer compromised by leaving his wife as hostage—"She's a brand new and valuable wife," he explained—while he went to get the coupons.

Ten minutes later the customer was back, the tank was filled, the coupons were in the gas station drawer, the wife was back in the car and everybody was happy.

The motorist? He was John Faust, district gas executive of the OPA at Escanaba.

RIVALRY.—Down at Menominee and Marinette the folks are talking more about the Menominee-Marinette high school Armistice Day football game than they are about the recent election. Which is probably a good thing, because they will have to wait four years for the next election, while the two teams buck each other every year.

The rivalry between Menominee and Marinette extends beyond the annual football game, although that seems to be the high spot of the year. In between times many folks in the two towns are not even on boating terms, and residents of Menominee have been known to drive to Chicago by way of St. Ignace to avoid going through Marinette.

Although the above is an exaggeration, there is a very real feeling of animosity existing there last summer observed an incident which illustrates the wisdom of wild creatures.

It was a windy night, but insects circled an overhead electric light at the guard post. The guardsman saw a large spider move from a crevice on the lee side of a timber, crawl up to its top edge—and held one long hairy foreleg up in to the air. The wind whipped the spider's leg back and the spider retreated to his crevice.

Then, about every half hour for two hours, the spider came out and repeated his experiment to test the force of the wind, and then went back. Finally the wind went down—and the spider rushed out to rebuild his web near the light to catch the insects for his dinner.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Manistique—Two children Jibby Roemer, 4, and Norman Beaudry, Jr., 5, were injured in automobile accidents here Thursday. The Roemer child received a wound on his forehead that required eight stitches to close and the Beaudry child suffered a double fracture of the right leg just above the ankle. Police investigates both accidents and no blame has been placed against the drivers.

Lansing—Auditor General John K. Stuck is being pushed into prominence as the logical candidate for the Democratic party for the governorship in 1936, although the Escanaba man appears to be the least interested in possible developments.

20 Years Ago—1924

Manistique—Another coal yard was opened up for business yesterday by William Strahl, who has leased the property formerly owned by the Riverside Coal Co. now dissolved.

Gladstone—The Ladies Foreign Missionary society of the Alice Memorial Episcopal church were entertained at a chop suey dinner held at the church Monday afternoon. The society was divided into two groups. Mrs. T. D. Springer is captain of one group and Mrs. W. S. Skellenger heads the other.

25 Years Ago—1919

Munising.—Bulletin: Unconfirmed reports here tonight were that 16 bodies had been found along the shores of Lake Superior by members of the coast guard station at Grand Marais. The bodies are believed to be those of members of the crew of the steamer, John Owen, long overdue at Sault Ste. Marie, and which is thought to have been lost in the terrific storm on Lake Superior last week.

dition, and both towns would be better off if they were either in the same state and could be in fact Twin Cities—or were 40 miles apart.

OPPORTUNITY.—Mickey is Escanaba Mayor Sam Wickman's seeing eye police dog, which means that Mickey is always pretty much on a leash. She therefore seldom has a chance to go chasing wildly around like other dogs.

At council meetings Mickey rests on the floor at Mayor Wickman's feet. Downstairs in the city hall is the fire station, and when there is a fire call and the fire engines go clanging and screeching out Mickey whines and barks.

Once last summer Mickey was free of her leash in the yard at the Wickman home on South 14th street, and the fire trucks happened to go by. This was the opportunity Mickey had been waiting for. At last she could chase and bark at the bright red fire trucks!

But as she leaped out into the street she wrenched her shoulder and sat whining while the fire trucks sped away out of sight. For several weeks she walked with a limp. The opportunity fizzled and now Mickey will probably have to wait several years for another chance like that.

SPIDER WISE.—An Escanaba man, a member of the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve, while on guard duty at the one docks last summer observed an incident which illustrates the wisdom of wild creatures.

It was a windy night, but insects circled an overhead electric light at the guard post. The guardsman saw a large spider move from a crevice on the lee side of a timber, crawl up to its top edge—and held one long hairy foreleg up in to the air. The wind whipped the spider's leg back and the spider retreated to his crevice.

Then, about every half hour for two hours, the spider came out and repeated his experiment to test the force of the wind, and then went back. Finally the wind went down—and the spider rushed out to rebuild his web near the light to catch the insects for his dinner.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—MGM, which will do a sequel to "See Here, Private Hargrove," will include this incident which Hargrove forgot to put into his book: When he entered the Army, his buddies were reluctant to call him Marion. "We know that's your name," they told him, "but it sounds like a girl's name. What was your nickname before you entered the Army?" "Better call me Marion, or make up a name," Hargrove insisted, "because my pre-Army nickname isn't usable now." "It must be better than Marion," they told him. "Come on now—tell—what was your nickname before you entered the Army?" Private Hargrove confessed: "My nickname was 'Colonel'."

IN THE STORK CLUB

last night John Chapman told of having telephoned W. C. Fields for some information about a famous producer. As an example of typical Hollywood self-absorption, Fields reported that one day this producer came home early and found his wife in the arms of a failed cowboy star. The producer glared at them in fury and shouted to the cowboy: "Hey, what are you doing?" "The onetime star broke from his clench and shrugged, casually: "To tell you the truth, not much of anything these days."

AFTER ORSON WELLES finished his campaigning last week he returned to Hollywood, where a number of actors questioned the wisdom of his having electioneered. "There must be some angle to it," one of them suggested. "You probably thought that being in politics would enhance your value as a performer." "I don't think politics could do that," Welles answered. "In 1937 I received $1,000 and top billing for a lecture in the Mid-West. The man who shared the platform with me, and who received $750 and second billing, was Winston Churchill."

JOHN WEXLEY, author of "The Last Mile" and "They Shall Not Die," has received a medical discharge from the Army. Wexley, over 40, entered the Army as a private. At an Air Force base he met Pfc. Max Wilk, formerly of Warner Bros. They went to the mess hall together. Wilk had his arm in a sling and was unable to cut the meat served him. Private Wexley volunteered to help him. "Did you ever think that some day you'd have a $2,000-a-week writer cutting your meat for you?" asked Wexley. "As much as you thought that some day," replied Wilk, "you'd be cutting meat for a $50-a-week writer."

A FEW DAYS AGO the strollers on lower Fifth Avenue were startled to see a man who bore a striking resemblance to Franchot Tone wheeling a baby carriage down Fifth Avenue. Their surprise was heightened by the fact that the baby carriage was empty. The carriage pusher really was Tone. The actor had scoured the city for a baby carriage. He finally managed to buy one at Wanamaker's. And because of the delivery problem, together with the fact that Mrs. Tone needed the carriage for their baby immediately, the film star pushed it home himself.

SOME OF Wendell Willkie's friends have the blueprints for setting up independent parties in at least six states, with the possibilities that these may eventually be anchored to the new Liberal Party in N. Y., which polled more than 325,000 votes in its first campaign. . . . Ed Noble, owner of the Blue Network, won an election bet from Henry Luce—a bet made a year ago, at the Sumner Welles dinner, that Roosevelt would run and be re-elected. . . . A new public relations aide to one of America's most famous politicians announced he would perform his job so zealously that "when any one of my boss' friends dies, there'll be a condolence message to the family even before rigor mortis sets in."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON
(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—President Roosevelt's first Cabinet meeting after Election Day found him fighting mad. Cabinet members who have sat in these semi-weekly meetings for twelve long years said they had never seen "the Boss" so grim.

"In thirty years of political life," he said, "I have never seen such a dirty, unfair, below-the-belt campaign."

"During the last two weeks," the President continued, "I got mad. And I stayed mad. I could bite some of those so-and-so's."

He said he had not even received the traditional telegram or letter of congratulation from Gov. Dewey which a defeated candidate always sends to the victor.

Aside from this, Cabinet members remarked among themselves that the President had never looked better, that it had done him good to get out and do some campaigning instead of being surrounded by generals and admirals in Washington. He himself indicated that he had enjoyed getting the feel of the people.

—MORE SOCIAL SECURITY—

During the first Cabinet session, the President gave his okay to two important projects which will come before the next Congress.

(1) Change in the minimum wage from 40 to 60 cents an hour; and (2) revision of the Social Security Act.

This came up when Secretary of Labor Perkins asked about certain revisions in the Wage-Hour Act, and the President, not quite catching what she said, remarked that he was in favor of giving farm hands and domestic servants the benefit of unemployment and old-age insurance.

This comes under the Social Security Act, and Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt spoke up to ask whether the President was in favor of presenting new social security legislation at the next session of Congress in January or at the present closing session. Social Security chairman Arthur Altmeyer has drafted some detailed revisions of the law, broadening it to include farm workers and servants, also including new health insurance and other benefits.

The President made it clear that these revisions of the act were to be introduced at the January session. He also indicated that he favored changing the minimum wage from 40 cents to 60 cents an hour, which will give an automatic boost to wages all along the line.

—THE CARLETON HOTEL'S HAMLET—

The Scene: Washington's swank Carleton Hotel, main dining room.

The Time: Almost any lunch hour. Soft music plays while the nation's top-notch "thinkers" and lobbyists digest their mid-day meal. The music stops. The waiting crowd at the door parts. Eyes turn toward the center aisle. In walks a hulking, black-bedecked bushy-browed, greying man. He struts ponderously, looking neither left nor right. John L. Lewis has come to lunch.

Lewis eats alone. He takes the same table every day at the extreme rear of the dining room, knows that many a newcomer to Washington is as excited at seeing him as at seeing FDR. His menu is the same every day, if he can get it—rare roast beef—preceded by a wee snifter of sherry. When his coffee is served, Lewis reaches into a pocket, takes out a long black cigar. Out of another pocket he takes a detective story magazine. He relaxes for fifteen minutes, then struts out the way he came. Shakespeare's Hamlet, invisible robe over his shoulders, dagger at his side.

—TRAPPED BY HARNESS—

Detailed reports of what happened as a result were hushed up at the time, but it is now possible to reveal that many U. S. paratroopers were shot down by German snipers before they were able to get out of their harnesses. Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, artillery commander of the 101st Airborne Division, later awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in parachuting over Normandy, had to cut his harness off with a knife. A Time Magazine correspondent got hung up in a tree head down, nearly choked to death on his parachute harness before someone climbed up and cut him free.

It was especially bad when men landed in trees. They had little chance to unsnap the three cumbersome buckles. Dead German snipers shot them down. Dead bodies in the trees of Normandy gave mute, gruesome testimony to U. S. Army bungling on the home front.

It was after this that Army paratroop chiefs really were galvanized into action. An American parachute rigger was immediately rushed back to England with a crew to convert U. S. parachutes to the quick-release harness.

Not even by this time had any of the new harnesses, ordered after this column's March expose, arrived in England, so British harnesses were purchased. The British, incidentally, refused to sell their quick-release box alone, insisted on selling their entire harness at a very high price, charged up on the books as reverse lend-lease.

American parachute riggers worked day and night converting our parachutes to this harness. Finally, by the time of the spectacular paratroop landing at Arnhem, about fifty percent had been converted. Arnhem, unfortunately, was not a success. But at least, there were many fewer casualties from men being fouled in their harnesses at Arnhem.

It's a lot more pleasant to be ahead with your work and behind with your worry than the reverse.

It's mighty hard to grasp opportunity when your hands are full of debts.

ASK YULE GIFTS FOR SICK YANKS

Legion Sponsoring Drive
For Wounded Men
In Hospitals

The Cloverland Post No. 82, American Legion, Escanaba, is co-operating with the American Legion nationally in the sponsorship of a program to provide "Christmas gifts for Yanks who gave," it was announced yesterday by Post Commander C. Elmer Olson.

Purpose of the drive is to provide Christmas gifts for sick and wounded service men and women in service hospitals throughout the country. Civilians are urged, when they go Christmas shopping, to purchase an extra gift for a sick or wounded service man and turn it over to the local Legion post for Christmas distribution.

Commander Olson said that the gifts will be distributed as near as possible to home, with the surplus redirected to the next closest hospital so that none will be without a gift box. The local Legion post will receive and store the gift boxes and final delivery to hospitals will be made through the Legion.

Suggestions for gifts to include in the boxes include toilet articles, stationery, home-made candies, cookies, playing cards, books for both men and women. The outside of the boxes should be plainly marked for "men" or "women."

All boxes must be in the hands of the local Legion post by December 10, Commander Olson said. Persons who have gift boxes ready are asked to notify either Commander Olson or William Perron, adjutant of the Cloverland Post.

Over 500,000 gift boxes will be required in the United States and over 3,500 gift boxes will be needed for the seven service hospitals in Michigan. A suggested cost per box purchased is from $3 to $5, although this is up to the donor. Stores will pack the boxes on order, and individuals are urged to pack the boxes themselves if they so desire.

No cash contributions are desired.

Women and Others

Bring Back Bucks

First Gladstone women reported to have filled their licenses are Mrs. Helmer Peterson and Miss Eusebia Louis. Hunting at Helmer Peterson's camp at Ogontz Mrs. Peterson shot her buck, a ten-pointer, about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning while Miss Louis sat at the same spot and shot an 8-pointer about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon that dropped not over 25 feet from where Mrs. Peterson's deer had fallen.

Earl Louis, hunting at Forsythe Lake, filled his license and also shot a buck.

Ray Micks of Chicago, in camp with his brother, B. R. Micks, on the Haymeadow, is reported to have filled his license getting a big 12-pointer weighing 180 pounds.

Don Chase, who is with a party at the Chase camp north of Rapid River, killed a 196-pound 14-pointer Thursday afternoon.

Sherman J. Sword knows how to do it without losing any time off the job. Getting in off Soo Line Passenger Train No. 8 yesterday morning, he breakfasted and then jumped into his auto and drove back of Larch. Arriving about 10:15 he killed a beautiful 10-pointer, put it on the fender and was returning to Gladstone an hour later.

Marine Lauds Red Cross And Medical Corps Of Services

An interesting letter has been received from Cpl. John S. Noe, Manistique, of the U. S. Marine Corps, who is in a hospital in New Caledonia. Noe lauds the Medical Corps of the service and the Red Cross in his missive to Senator J. A. LaFramboise.

The letter in the main follows:

"Ever since I have been in the hospital my mail seems to take so darn long to arrive. I received sixty-seven letters yesterday, but everyone was dated last May, June or July. Some even later. All of that mail was transferred from my outfit to the hospital here. That makes the reason for the delay.

"The time sure has been going fast. It is five months I have been in the hospital now. I have been wounded. Saipan sure seems a long ways off. Seems like yesterday we were making the beachhead. In nineteen more days it will be one year since we fought at Tarawa. So you can see what I mean. But by the looks of things maybe it won't be too much longer before all the boys and girls can come home for good. Let's hope so, anyway.

"My hip is fine now. No more limp when I walk. But my arm is still on the bum. I just had my third operation about a week ago, and it seems to be coming along fine. It still is somewhat paralyzed. But should be OK in three or four months. I sure would like to be home by Christmas, but looks like I won't. But I am not alone I guess.

"I do like to say our medical corps is excellent. The doctors here are doing a marvelous job. They are really busy. I do like to say that parents whose boys are wounded in action or are in the hospitals from some other sources don't have to worry one bit, the treatment they give us can't be beat. The American Red Cross gets my thanks too. Along with the Navy Medical Corps they can't be beat."

CHINESE ARMY DESIRES PEACE

Capt. Ping-Kang Lee, 30,
Is Recent Visitor
In Iron Mt.

Iron Mountain—"I have been in the Army 11 years. I want some day, to return to my son; my parents, brothers and sister, and live there, in peace, for the rest of my life. We—all of us—are tired of war. We want it to end, but we will go on fighting, hand in hand, until a sound and permanent peace is won. We will do a better job, this time, because we know each other better, we know our mutual aims and we have a deeper understanding than at any time the history of our two countries.

"We will go on to a better world for all the people of the world. This is a great and mighty nation. I want—in the years of peace—to bring my family here and to show them the fine country which has been so strongly allied with us in this struggle."

In this manner, Capt. Ping-Kang Lee, 30, of the Chinese army, visitor in the city this week and who left today to return to Fort Knox Kentucky, paid tribute to the country in which he is now receiving intensive training in military tactics, particularly tank warfare.

In this country for 11 months, and on orders to continue his training for another year, Capt. Lee has made rapid progress with the English language—"all except your slang," he said yesterday. "I do not 'savy' some of the words you use, which don't sound quite like English to me," he said, smiling. He is picking up some Army slang, however, which he likes to try out, occasionally, on his friends.

Six Years of Fighting

Capt. Lee came to the United States from Chungking, China, where, after six years of fighting with Chinese combat troops in the withdrawal from Nanking, the former capital, he was on duty with the Chinese War Department. Nanking was taken over by the Japs in 1937.

The captain began his study of English 10 years ago, in Chinese high school. He was graduated in 1936 from the Central Military Academy at Nanking, the "West Point of China," and after six months of maneuvers in the field, was commissioned a second lieutenant. He was advanced to captain a year and a half ago, shortly before being commissioned for special study in the United States.

Capt. Lee fought with the Chinese combat troops in and about Shanghai, on the west coast, and was hit by shrapnel, in the right knee, during a heavy Japanese advance. He was hospitalized for three months, and returned to duty as a platoon leader. He was on active duty with the Chinese forces which withdrew from Nanking to Hankow.

Sarah Asselin, 22, Dies In Bay City

Miss Sarah Asselin, 22, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Beus Asselin, and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. U. P. Asselin, William Asselin and Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeBruyn, of Norway, died Wednesday in Mercy hospital, Bay City, as the result of burns she suffered two weeks ago when her costume became ignited at a Halloween party.

Halloween night Miss Asselin attended a party given by girls from the office of the Meisel Hardware company, where she was employed. As she entered the house, where it was to be held, a gust of wind caused flames from candles in lighted pumpkins, placed on the floor near the door, to leap up and ignite the skirt of her hawaiian costume. She became hysterical and resisted attempts of the guests to beat out the flames. Her entire body, excepting her face, which was protected by a mask, was severely burned. Pneumonia developed later. Two days before an oxygen tent.

She leaves two brothers, Charles, Norway, and Cpl. Robert, in the army in New Guinea, and two sisters, Jeanne, who conducts a beauty shop in Grand Rapids, and Lieut. Mary, an army nurse serving overseas. Her parents, who moved to Alpena from Iron Mountain in 1934, were killed in an automobile accident six years ago.

OPA POULTRY PRICES ISSUED

Ceilings About Same As Last Year; Turkey
53c And Under

Retail poultry prices in Escanaba for the Thanksgiving season will be substantially the same as last year, the OPA ceiling price list for dressed poultry reveals.

The top price for Thanksgiving poultry is 53 cents per pound for light young turkeys, weighing under 16 pounds. Turkey prices scale down to 46 cents for heavy old turkeys, 26 pounds and over. Turkeys, however, are scarce for the civilian market and many families will have to forego the traditional turkey for their Thanksgiving feast.

The prices quoted for poultry in the Escanaba area are for birds other than grade B. All hard scaled poultry must be sold as grade B poultry and priced at least one and

Registration
Open for Home
Nursing Class

Delta county women who plan to take the Red Cross home nursing course, which will begin Monday night at the Webster school annex, may register now at the Red Cross headquarters or with committee members.

Those on the county committee and their telephone numbers are: Mrs. Louis Hoyler, 745; Mrs. Walter Dickson, 1664; Mrs. Mike Farrell, 407, of Escanaba; and Mrs. Dale Wescott, 4271, and Mrs. Stanley Venne, 5061, of Gladstone.

Those who cannot begin the class now but would like to take the course later should register now.

At the first class a convenient meeting night will be arranged. Upon completion of the six-lesson course, Red Cross certificates will be presented to those who have taken it.

Children's Story
Hour At Library

Miss Jean Trantanello, children's librarian at the Carnegie public library, has chosen three interesting stories, "Don't Wash My Ears," "Credle," "Soldier Sam," "MacNeil," and "Epiniondas and His Aunties," a folk tale, for the children's story hour which she will conduct this morning at the Carnegie public library. The story hour will be held in the Children's Room, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Former Gladstone Boy Killed In Action On Leyte

Irving E. Fillmore, 38, Detroit, formerly of Gladstone, was killed in action in the Philippines, according to word received here.

The telegram from Acting Adjutant General Dunlop to Fillmore's wife, the former Evelyn Johnson of Gladstone reads:

"The Secretary of War desires me to express his deep regret that your husband, Pvt. Irving E. Fillmore, was killed in action on 21 October on Leyte. Letter follows."

Fillmore, a son of the late Fred C. Fillmore and Lottie Fillmore, was reared in Gladstone and attended the public schools, graduating from Gladstone high school in 1925. A cement contractor he resided at various places, his last residence being Detroit where he had been for about five years.

His widow resides at 3518 Second street, Wayne, Mich., where she teaches school. In addition to the widow, the mother, Mrs. Lottie Fillmore, two brothers, Ellis and Clifford, and one sister, Gladys, all of Flint, survive.

TAGS DEER HE DIDN'T SHOOT

It's Expensive Procedure Gladstone Hunter Finds

Albert Cretens of this city has found that it doesn't pay to put your tag on a deer you didn't kill.

Charged with that offense Cretens was arraigned in the court of Justice O. C. Estenson yesterday and upon his plea of guilty was fined $50 and costs of $5.

Ronald Ulrath of Bangor, Mich., was the complainant in the case.

According to the story told by Ulrath he shot the deer Wednesday near dark and dragged it part way to his camp near Ensign when darkness fell. The deer was hung in a barn or shelter and when they returned the next day it was gone.

There were marks of the deer having been dragged to an auto and a description of the car tracks and the car that had been in that vicinity obtained. It belonged in a group of hunters nearby.

State police checked upon obtaining the complaint and within a few hours had the deer and the party that had taken it.

WAR PRISONER MAIL SPEEDED

Red Cross To Help In Getting Mail To Prisoners

Messages to prisoners of war, heretofore an uncertain proposition subject to long delays, may now be facilitated through the services of the American Red Cross, Mrs. Gottfried S. Johnson, chairman of the prisoners of war committee of the Schoolcraft Red Cross chapter announces.

Under a new plan announced by the Army Provost Marshall General, mail will now be forwarded through the International Red Cross in Switzerland for delivery to prisoners of war either in Germany or Japan.

Previously mail could not be accepted by the post office for prisoners until their permanent prison camp addresses were received. This was usually two or three months after notification of capture.

The letters can now be sent as soon as a man is reported prisoner, Mrs. Johnson states, provided they contain the full name and address of the prisoner identifying him as a prisoner of war in Germany.

In the case of Japanese prisoners the restrictions are more severe, but forms of messages, which the local chapter has on hand, may be used.

Annual Army-Navy Football Game To Be Played At Baltimore Dec. 2

FULLBACK GETS SPARTAN AWARD

Battle Creek Junior Is Named Most Valuable At Michigan State

East Lansing, Nov. 17 (AP)—Jaewer (Jack) Breslin, junior fullback from Battle Creek, tonight was revealed as the winner of the Governor of Michigan Award which annually goes to the Michigan State college football player who is judged by letter winners to have been most valuable to the team.

Chosen at a meeting of the squad, Breslin was introduced at the Spartan banquet this evening. Breslin was a dependable man in the State backfield all season. He did most of the punting, was an accurate forward passer and handled the ball on almost all the plays. This was his first year of college football.

He is a graduate of Lakeview High school at Battle Creek and is deferred from military service. Harold Johnson, right half, a 17-year-old from Du Bois, Pa., was similarly designated as the team's best blocker.

Breslin gained a total of 521 yards rushing for an average of 4.1, completed seven passes out of 23 good for 274 yards and in punting 27 times averaged 39 yards. He led the team in scoring with 55 points on nine touchdowns and one converted point. Of 420 minutes total playing time he was on the field 269 minutes. He is the 13th player to receive the award which originated in 1931. It marked the fifth time that it has gone to a backfield player.

Cadets And Middies Sure Winners Today

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Army and Navy are picked to win their football games tomorrow, their final skirmishes before the annual service clash on Dec. 2. (Season's record: 188 correct and 46 incorrect for 803.)

Today's selections: Army over Penn: Penn's tackles may cause Army some difficulty but lack of healthy Quaker punter will be fatal.

Navy over Purdue: Middies may have difficulty if Jenkins and Hamberg both are kept idle by their injuries.

Ohio State over Illinois: Buckeyes are reported ready, physically and mentally.

Mississippi State over Alabama: Shorty McWilliams to get loose often enough for State's seventh victory in a row.

Southern California over California: Jim Hardy still is there to flip those passes for the Trojans.

Georgia Tech over Louisiana State: Should be easy for Tech, with this reservation—we haven't picked LSU correctly in any game this season.

Notre Dame over Northwestern: 56,000 fans are coming out to see if the Irish will rebound from last week's massacre. They will.

Yale over North Carolina: A severe test for the unbeaten Elis but they should survive.

Iowa Pre-Flight over Missouri: The Seahawks pack too much of a punch.

Great Lakes over Marquette: It was 45 to 7 in their first meeting this year and tomorrow's score shouldn't be much different.

Arkansas over Southern Methodist: The surprising Razorbacks to remain in the southwest title race.

Indiana over Pittsburgh: The Hoosiers with ease.

Texas over Texas Christian: Despite the numerous upsets in this rivalry, Texas shouldn't have too much difficulty.

Second Air Force over Washington: The second defeat in a row for the Huskies.

City Basketball Teams Must Turn In Lineups Soon

Coach Don Pelletier of the city recreation center reported yesterday that all basketball lineups for the city league must be turned in within a week. Several teams have already submitted lineups.

Pelletier has organized a team from the recreation center and is seeking out-of-town games. Players are Lough and McDermott, forwards; Piche, center; King and LaCrosse, guards.

Pelletier is in charge of the gym afternoons from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock and George LaFave is in charge in the evening from 7 to 10, except on nights in which the girls take the gym under the direction of Doris Costley.

HOME-MADE CLOUDS

Pocket-size clouds and snowstorms are "manufactured" to help speed development of more powerful electrical systems for American warplanes. Confined in a glass flask not much bigger than a milk bottle, the clouds and snowflakes that flutter down from them are used to test the effectiveness of electrical insulation at altitudes up to 12 miles.

Oklahoma over Kansas: The Sooners clinch their Big Six title in this one.

Finishing in a hurry—East: Colgate over Syracuse, Cornell over Dartmouth, Columbia over Brown, West Virginia over Kentucky.

Tennessee over Temple, Penn State over Maryland, Bucknell over Villanova, Lafayette over Lehigh, Princeton over Swarthmore, Melville, R. I., PT School over Holy Cross (Sunday).

South: Georgia over Auburn, Bainbridge over Camp Lejeune, North Carolina Pre-Flight over Camp Peary, Tulane over Clemson, Duke over South Carolina.

North Carolina State over Richmond, William & Mary over VMI, Third Air Force over Maxwell Field, Georgia Pre-Flight over Daniel Field (Sunday).

Midwest: Minnesota over Iowa, Michigan over Wisconsin, Iowa State over Drake, Olathe, Kas., Navy over Kansas State.

Far West: USLA over College of Pacific, Fourth Air Force over San Diego Naval Training, Colorado College.

Southwest: Randolph Field over Southwestern (Texas), Texas A. & M. over Rice, Texas Tech over New Mexico.

Major Loops Want Landis Back Again

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—A joint committee of the American and National Leagues recommended today that Kenesaw Mountain Landis be re-elected for another term as commissioner of baseball and that the present major league agreement between the two circuits be extended.

President Will Harridge of the American League, after an hour and a half meeting, made this announcement.

"The joint committee of the two major leagues will recommend to the clubs that the present major league agreement be extended. The two leagues will also propose at their coming joint meeting that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis be re-elected commissioner for another term of seven years from the expiration of his present contract."

Landis, currently confined at St. Luke's hospital here, will continue in office under his present term until January, 1946, when the major league agreement also expires.

CAGE PROSPECT FAIR---REQUE

Plenty Of Material But No Stars, Says Coach

Cage prospects for the Manistique Emeralds are only fair at this stage of the season, Coach Thor Reque reports.

There is material galore, he states. Some of it is very promising and the supply of regulars is fairly good, he adds, but there is no one in the squad who can take the place of either Hough or Burger and Curley, upon whom so much reliance has been placed, cannot possibly get into the game before the first of the year. That knee injury suffered in a recent football game, may keep him on the bench the rest of the year.

All is not gloom, however. The coach's first call to practice was responded to by 108 students. And while much of this material is wholly inexperienced, he is sure of a good working squad.

Among the lettermen who have reported for practice are such regulars as Patz, Holm, Cournya, Haden and Schuster. And among those who have been advanced to the status of first string players are Melavie, Pistulka, Anderson, Creighton and Beckman.

Following is the schedule for the 1944-45 season:

- Dec. 8, Sault, here.
- Dec. 15, Gladstone there.
- Dec. 22, Negaunee there.
- Jan. 12, Newberry, here.
- Jan. 19, St. Joseph, there.
- Jan. 26, Munising, there.
- Feb. 2, Munising, here.
- Feb. 9, Sault, there.
- Feb. 16, Newberry, there.
- Feb. 23, Escanaba, here.
- March 2, Gladstone, here.

County Honor Roll Lists 1,180 Names

Schoolcraft county's Roll of Honor, that attractive signboard on Cedar street maintained by the local post of the American Legion, now contains 1,180 names of men who have entered their country's service in World War II. Fifty-four names were added to the roll in the month just past, eight of them being men inducted into the service from here. The other names are those of former residents of Manistique and Schoolcraft county who have entered service elsewhere.

The Legion is desirous of learning the names of any other residents of the county who may be eligible for having their names placed on this scroll.

Girl Scouts Will Conduct Annual Cookie Sale

Girl Scouts will hold their annual cookie sale today.

Cookies of very good quality and attractively packaged in Scout emblemed cartons will be sold throughout the city, and the entire organization pressed into this service as sales girls.

This sale, has for several years, been an annual affair in Manistique. The entire profit it turned over to the local troop treasuries for the fulfillment of worthy projects.

And the cookies are well worth the price asked.

LeRoy Vertz Baby Stricken Suddenly

Richard Hughie Vertz, seven-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Vertz, who reside in the Tannery Addition, died about seven o'clock Friday morning following a brief illness.

The child was born April 7, 1944 and is survived by his parents, one sister, Patricia, and three brothers, Ernest, Gordon and Wallace, all at home.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the Kefauver & Jackson funeral home and burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Cars Crash Headon Thursday Evening

Two cars, one a sedan driven by Fred C. Altewald, St. Clair, and the other a car driven by Henry C. Olesak, 620 Oak street, Manistique, crashed headon on Old U. S. Highway about four miles west of town about 6:30 Thursday evening. Both drivers were alone in their cars when the crash occurred and were not injured, but the cars were badly smashed and had to be towed into town.

Red Cross Wants Volunteer Knitters

A quantity of yarn has been received by the local Red Cross chapter, Mrs. G. S. Johnson, local chairman announces, and the committee in charge is very anxious that this material be placed in the hands of volunteer knitters at the earliest possible moment.

The articles to be made from this yarn are sweaters, gloves, bed socks and helmets and anyone wishing to aid in this most worthy project is asked to notify either Mrs. G. S. Johnson, Arbutus avenue; or Mrs. C. D. Manson, 411 Arbutus avenue.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Is participation in athletic worth even the risk of death itself? This question was raised by Rev. Alfred Swan at Madison, Wisconsin, at the funeral services of Allan J. Shafer, who was killed last Saturday the Wisconsin-Iowa football game. Rev. Swan answered the question with words that will stand as an indelible reply to all those who snipe at the emphasis placed in America on competitive sports. Rev. Swan's vivid defense of athletics may well be clipped and saved for the day when the reformers once again unload their venom on Americans' deep rooted love for athletics.

BADGERS COME TO ANN ARBOR

Michigan Needs Two In A Row To Grab Off Big Ten Title

BY FRANK KENESSON

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines, needing successive triumphs over Wisconsin and Ohio State to grab off the Big Ten football title they shared last year with Purdue, wind up their home season here tomorrow against the Badgers.

Michigan, improving steadily all season, will be after its sixth successive victory and its eighth win in nine starts. Coach H. O. Fritz Crisler of the Wolverines, certain that Wisconsin will be "at its peak," sought to avoid a Michigan letdown by drilling the Wolverines hard all week on the slashing ground game with which they have reeled off a 275-yard rushing average for eight games.

The Badgers will be making their first start since their first string quarterback Allen Shafer, Jr., died of injuries suffered during Wisconsin's 26 to 7 win over Iowa last week.

Wisconsin hopes for an upset triumph hinged on the physical condition of its sensational freshman halfback, Earl (Jug) Girard, who was expected to return to the lineup for the first time since going out of the Purdue game two weeks ago with a twisted knee.

The Badgers, winner only four times in 19 games against Michigan, needed a victory to level their season mark at four wins and four defeats. The Wolverines beat Wisconsin last season 27 to 0.

drew LaBar, 83, retired druggist, who died Wednesday morning at his home on Manistique avenue after a long illness. The Rev. William Harrington conducted the services and interment was in Lakeview cemetery.

Mr. LaBar was born in Tioga, Pa., April 26, 1861 and had resided in Manistique since 1895. He is survived by three children, Roy, Rhineland, Wis.; Mrs. William Gardner and Mrs. George Swanson, both of Manistique; two brothers, Myron LaBar, L'Anse, and Gene LaBar, Newberry; 12 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

The following were pall bearers: Dr. A. L. Tucker, Henry Hargreave, Sol Reid, Henry Neville, William Crowe and Fred Norton.

WAR BOND TILT TO DRAW 71,000

What Public Will Pay Remains Mystery For Few Days

BY WILLIAM O. VARN

Baltimore, Nov. 17 (AP)—For the second time in history, the Army and Navy will settle their annual gridiron feud in Baltimore, but it was just as much of a mystery as ever tonight what the public would pay to see the Cadets and Middies go after each other December 2.

The only thing clear was an official statement by the Navy department in Washington, ending a week of speculation, that the seasoned battle between the two great elevens would be played before an estimated 70,000 in Baltimore rather than in the semi-privacy of tiny Thompson stadium in Annapolis with its 18,756 seats.

Just 20 years ago, in 1924, Army kicked the Navy 12 to 0 before 80,000 fans in Baltimore's Municipal stadium.

The present regular seating capacity is 60,000 but officials said the other day that "if there is time we can get in 71,000 seats easy." Since 1924 two sections of the stands which seat 9,000 have been torn away.

Immediately after the announcement that the game had been shifted, Walter N. Ruth, head of the Maryland War Finance Committee, said that "the Army-Navy game definitely will be a war bond game, but it will be several days before a statement can be made concerning sale of bonds in that connection." Ruth said there was nothing he could say yet about the scale of bonds if they are to be purchased to obtain seats. He had just talked with treasury officials in Washington.

ESKYMOS CAGE TEAMS SHAPING

Reserves Will Play 9-Game Schedule This Season

Basketball candidates at the Escanaba high school have been divided into the varsity and reserve squads, Coach George Rutledge announced. Henry Wylie will coach the reserve squad, for which a nine game schedule has been arranged.

Members of the varsity squad are: Bob Dufour, Bill Dufour, Don Scott, Bill Finnegan, Cliff Weir, Elwyn MacCrae, LeRoy Finn, Jack Finn, Jack Schils, Durance Peterson, Roger Peterson, Don Ohman, Ken Dufresne, Don Wickholm, John Jacobs, Wayne Butler, Jim Ross and Frances Corbett.

The reserve team schedule for the season follows:

Dec. 5—Powers here
Dec. 12—Kingsford Reserves there

Dec. 15—Iron Mountain Reserves there
Jan. 12—Gladstone Reserves there

Jan. 17—Powers there.
Feb. 2—Harris here
Feb. 9—Iron Mt. Reserves here
Feb. 13—Gladstone Reserves here

March 2—Kingsford Reserves here

The Eskymo basketball squad has been holding practice sessions for a week and Coach Rutledge has indicated that progress has been satisfactory. The five lettermen have been tentatively assigned to starting positions on the first team but Rutledge emphasized that the battle for berths on the quintet is still wide open. Jack Finn is playing the pivot position at center, with Bob Dufour and Don Ohman, at forwards, Don Scott and Jack Schils, guards, Roger Peterson, guard and Jim Ross forward, are making strong bids for the first string, however.

Grand Marais

Grand Marais—Dr. M. Rathbun and party of friends from Chicago are here for the deer season. They are staying at the "End the Trail" cottage in West Town.

Miss Polly Tornovich of Detroit has arrived for a two weeks' visit at the home of her father, Anthony Tornovich, Sr.

Mrs. A. Hermling and son, Richard, of Detroit are visiting Mrs. Hermling's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Ylimaki.

Sgt. Raymond Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cline Carpenter is here on a 10 day furlough from Biloxi, Mississippi.

Miss Janice Williamson who is employed in Wayne, is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson.

Felix Soldenski of Detroit is spending the deer season here.

Lt. (j. g.) Alfred O. Neimi of N. Y. is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Neimi.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—Wheat and barley broke about a cent, a bushel in early futures trading today but when an overnight accumulation of selling was back to near the previous close.

Wheat rallied when milling interests started buying.

Corn was firm except for a brief period following the opening. It changed to 1/4 lower than yesterday's finish, December $1.65. Corn was 3-8 to 1/2 higher, December $1.07 1/2. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 lower, December $3 7-8 to 64. Rye was off 1-8 to 3/4, December $1.07 5-8 to $1.07 1/2. Barley was unchanged to 1/4 lower, December $1.05.

Scattered liquidation of rye continued throughout the session. The trade in oats and barley was light and both markets followed the lead of other grains.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

LEADERS TAKE LOWER LEVELS

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Scattered stock favorites managed to keep in the plus column today while numerous market leaders stood still or slipped to slightly lower levels.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1/4 point at 34.6 owing to timid last-minute comebacks in several rails. Of 850 issues appearing, 332 were down, 275 up and 243 un- changed. 14,400 transactions, 705,000 shares compared with 847,200 Thursday and were the smallest for a full session since October.

At post for 1944 were Standard Gas $7 preferred, up 5/8; Pittsburgh Coal preferred, up 4 points on meager sales, and Emerson Electric, up 1.

BOND DEMAND BROAD

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Bond issues posted new gains today under a continued fairly broad demand. Other bond department groups were generally steady.

Buying activities predominated throughout the Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Pennsylvania, Seaboard, Union and Southern Pacific lists with gains ranging from fractions to more than a point.

International Great Northern 5 1/2 of 56 pushed up 2 points and Lehigh Valley 4 1/2 rose 1/4. In the general list, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron, issued $2,750,000 of 5 1/2's, were registered but generally small dealers.

Foreign bond issues were irregular with a tendency to heaviness in some South American and Scandinavian issues. U. S. governments held to a steady and narrow range.

Transactions totaled $5,600,000 compared with $9,400,000 the previous day.

TRADING TRENDS

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Stocks: Irregular; price changes narrow.

Bonds: Steady; rails improve.

Cotton: Easier; commission house liquidation; hedging.

Wheat: Steady. Mill buying.

Corn: Firm. Stronger cash market.

Rye: Weak. Liquidation.

Hogs: Fairly active, steady to strong, Top $14.45.

Cattle: Steady. Top $18.40.

ORDINANCE NO. 135
AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE AND LICENSE THE OPERATION OF TAXI CABS WITHIN THE CITY OF ESCANABA, AND TO PROVIDE PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF.

Section 1: The word "taxicab" shall mean and include any motor vehicle engaged in the business of carrying passengers for hire, a vehicle which does not run or operate over a particular route or to a particular point or between particular points but transports passengers to any place within the will of the passenger.

Section 2: It shall be unlawful for any person or persons, partnership or corporation of any type or organization to own or operate a taxicab within the meaning of this ordinance, in the City of Escanaba, without first having obtained a license as hereinafter provided. Any person desiring a license to operate a taxicab shall file with the City Clerk an application therefor, stating:

- Type of vehicle to be used as taxicab, make, model, year, color, make, showing name, year, manufactured, number of miles operated and such other information as may be required.
- The name of the owner of the taxicab, business experience, either as the owner and operator of a taxicab or otherwise.
- Statement of financial worth insuring assets in the City of Escanaba, Michigan.
- Location and type of office and garage from which said taxicab is to be operated.
- A list of references (at least three) as to integrity, habits, reputation, and financial ability or recommendations covering these points.
- A certificate of insurance carrier duly authorized to transact business in the State of Michigan, certifying that it has insured the taxicab sought to be licensed in the amount of: property damage, $10,000; public liability, $10,000 and $20,000. That such certificates shall contain a provision to the effect that the insurance company shall notify the City immediately upon cancellation of insurance on the motor vehicle licensed under this ordinance.

Section 3: The license fee shall be $20.00 per year for the first taxicab licensed in the name of any person, firm or corporation under this act and $10.00 additional for each subsequent taxicab thereafter licensed in the name of said individual, firm or corporation, such license fees to be first year to accompany said application. Such application when accompanied by such license fees shall be submitted to the City Manager who shall make a full and complete investigation covering the character, habits, experience and financial responsibility of the applicant to operate the proposed taxicab business and give the public the service provided for in this ordinance. He shall also investigate the location and type of office and garage from which said taxicab service is to be conducted and when said investigation by said City Manager has been completed, he shall present said application together with his report and recommendations thereon to the City Council, which shall then have the power to authorize or refuse the issuance of said license. If said application for license shall be returned to the applicant who shall be notified in writing that his application has been rejected. If such application is approved by said City Council, said license shall be issued by the City Clerk or the City Manager and shall be substantially in the following form:

I, the City Manager of the City of Escanaba, to whom these presents shall come, Greeting: Be it known that I have paid into the treasury of the City of Escanaba the sum of _____ dollars and have otherwise complied with the provisions of the Charter and Ordinances of said city in this behalf. Therefore the said _____ is hereby authorized and empowered to _____ for the period of _____.

Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Escanaba to be affixed at the City Manager's office in said city this _____ day of _____, 19____.

Countersigned: _____ City Manager

Section 4: It shall be the duty of any person, firm or corporation upon receiving said license to open a business office where telephone service will be maintained 24 hours daily and taxicabs to be at the disposal of the public upon request during the entire 24 hours of each day. Failure to operate said taxicab or said telephone service on a 24-hour basis shall be sufficient reason for the cancellation of any license issued to said owner of said taxicab.

Section 5: Any taxicab operated under this ordinance may be inspected by the City Manager or by anyone appointed by him at any time to determine whether said taxicab is a safe and proper vehicle with which to carry passengers, and if condemned by him as unsafe, shall not again be used as a taxicab until said taxicab shall be placed in proper repair and the City Manager so notified.

Section 6: Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction shall pay a fine not exceeding twenty dollars ($20.00) and on default thereof shall be confined in the city jail not exceeding ten days. If said person is convicted of a second violation of this ordinance, said license shall be cancelled.

Section 7: All ordinances or parts of ordinances heretofore adopted by the City which are in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 8: Should any provision or portion of this ordinance be held to be invalid for any reason, such holdings shall not be construed as affecting the validity of any remaining portion hereof, it being the intent of the City Council that the ordinance shall stand notwithstanding the invalidity of any such provision or portion.

CARL E. ANDERSON, City Clerk.
Approved: SAM R. WICKMAN, Mayor.
Adopted by the City Council Nov. 2, 1944.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Joseph, who passed away five years ago, November 18, 1939.

Five years ago you smiled
And closed your dear blue eyes,
To sleep, perhaps in angel's arms,
Who sing you hallelujahs.
Our broken hearts have memories
And dreams, when day is done,
Of how when living here,
We'll be with you our son.
And it will be like coming home,
To find you waiting, arms outstretched,
To greet us at the door.

Sadly missed by,
Mother and Father,
Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Skrobiak

TRUCKS CRASH, BROTHER DEAD

Fatal Accident Occurs
At Spalding Late
Thursday Night

Herman Burbank, 22, of 1723 Grant, Saginaw, was killed Thursday night about midnight at Spalding when the truck he was driving collided with one driven by his brother, William Burbank, also of Saginaw.

William was treated for injuries at the Powers sanatorium and was released Friday.

The two brothers, drivers for the Eastern Michigan Transit company, were driving trucks to Ironwood. Each drove a truck with a second truck in tow. William was ahead. When he slowed down for the turn-off at Spalding the other truck crashed into the back end. The impact drove the truck in tow into the rear of the cab and the driver was crushed.

Use of a wrecker was necessary to pull the cab apart to release the stricken man.

Roy Cadieu of Menominee was called to care for the body.

Hospital

Mrs. Fred Jamar of 125 North 23d street returned yesterday from St. Francis hospital where she recently submitted to an emergency operation.

Other patients dismissed are Mrs. Steve Johnson and infant son, of Ensign, Mrs. Don Devlin, Mary Tatrow, of Garden, Mrs. Mike Goulday, Shirley Franklin of Rapid River, Beverly Casey and Mrs. Aaron Plansky of Wilton.

Mrs. Alfred Raymond, who has been a surgical patient at St. Francis hospital, has been discharged and has returned to her home in Fayette.

The Very Rev. Fr. Thomas A. Kennedy, pastor of St. Patrick's church, who was receiving treatment at St. Francis hospital, was dismissed Thursday.

Tanks Of Third Army Crash To Border Of Saar

south of Bruyeres, overrunning at least eight towns.

The French First army, in rapid strides through cold, mountainous country at the southern end of the front, thrust three miles forward to within five miles of Belfort, gateway to the Rhine and Bavaria, and threatened to outflank the outpost town of Montbéliard on the north.

The British Second army in eastern Holland reached the Maas facing the German frontier—no more than five miles away at one point—and broke across the Zig Canal, where the enemy had dug in for a stand north of the Maas stronghold of Roermond.

Big Guns Massed

Hundreds of fighter-bombers flashed across the sullen skies, bombing Duren and Julich, vital communication centers for the Germans fighting with their backs to the Roer River on the First and Ninth army fronts. Pilots said both towns now resemble battered St. Lo in France.

Some of the fiercest fighting on the First army front raged in Stolberg, five miles east of Aachen, and two-thirds of the town now was in American hands.

It was disclosed that the First army massed 1,000 big guns for yesterday's attack firing 20 tons a minute for a full hour.

LT. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army tanks and infantry, unstoppable even in the deep mire and some of the worst weather ever seen in the west, stormed and seized the village of Gressenich, eight miles east of Aachen, in two hours and a half.

Bodies of the defenders strewn the streets and the rubble, a front dispatch said, after the big barrage had hurled exploding steel into German positions at the rate of 20 tons a minute for a full hour, pouring in everything from three-inchers to 240 millimeters.

The Ninth army northeast of Aachen was believed to be only a little farther from the Roer after beating off the tank-led counter-blow. They were driving toward Linnich, on the Roer 29 miles west of the Rhineland industrial city of Cologne.

May By-Pass Metz

The Ninth, last of four American armies to take the offensive against Hitler's Reich, took the counter-blow in stride and pressed on through the mine fields and booby traps, a front dispatch related.

Here again the Germans were obeying orders to fight to the last, and several hundred sullen, tough-fighting troops who filed back to the rear had fought to the last bullet and stuck to their positions until they were overrun.

Fighter-bombers darted under the clouds, attacking exposed positions, while hundreds of guns roared along the nine-mile front.

The U. S. Third army battled into the suburbs of Metz, where the Germans were throwing up street barricades, but it remained to be seen whether Patton would try to storm the barricade or encircle it and smash on east for the Saar.

The longest advance toward the city was scored on the north, where the doughboys of the 95th were less than a mile away after surrounding Fort Gumbetta. They also took Lorry-Les-Metz, a mile northwest of the city.

The Fifth infantry division, after advancing over 100 hard-won yards, was under a mile away on the south at an airfield and between Magny and Fort Queuleu.

The Fifth also surrounded the Verdun fort group some three miles to the southwest, despite harassing fire.

FORUM SPEAKER—Birkett L.

Williams of Cleveland, OPA administrator of Region III, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Citizens' Forum at the Escanaba city hall 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening, Nov. 21. He will discuss the nation-wide anti-inflation program. Charles Gessner will act as moderator during the question and answer period.

Marquette To Have U. P. State Library

Marquette—An Upper Peninsula branch office of the state library agency will be opened in the city hall next week, it was announced here yesterday. It will serve the entire Peninsula and will be operated by Mrs. Zona Kemp Williams, a former Ishpeming resident.

A telegram accepting the Marquette bid for the library office was received by Ben H. DeVoe, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce. It stated: "State board for libraries accepts with appreciation the room in the second floor of the Marquette city hall. Prefer to occupy it at the earliest possible date."

Boost War Fund Total To $29,303

The Delta county War Fund and community chest total yesterday stood at $29,303.01 following the depositing of $1,014 in contributions from the city of Escanaba, it was reported by Gerald Cleary, county War Fund campaign chairman. The goal for the county is $40,000.

Merton Jensen, Escanaba War Fund drive chairman, said that he is confident Escanaba will make its $19,600 quota, since about 130 of the block chairmen who are soliciting in the residential areas have not yet made their reports. So far the city has raised $14,550.95.

EHS A Capella Choir To Present "Chonita" As Annual Operetta

"Chonita", a kypsy romance, with music based upon themes of Franz Liszt, has been chosen as the Senior High School operetta this year, R. P. Bowers, director of music, announced yesterday.

The presentation will be done by members of the capella choir, and the performance is scheduled for January 27. Try-outs are already under way.

Marion Wakeman is the author of the book and lyrics, and the music was composed and arranged by Ira B. Wilson. "Chonita" is composed of three acts, takes place in Hungary about the year 1880.

231 Students Attend Vocational School

Two-hundred and thirty one students, from the senior high school, junior high school, rehabilitation and ungraded classes, are attending the vocational school of which L. J. Shaw is the director.

Eighty-four are learning drafting, 23 are in the welding classes, 34 are taking machine shop, 53 are taking woodshop, 18 are in the auto shop classes, 40 are learning printing and 19 are being taught functional mathematics.

The faculty of six includes John Bartel, Harry Gaffner, Victor Groos, L. J. Shaw, and G. H. Grab.

NAZIS GIVE UP TOWN IN ITALY

Rain And Hail Stalling
American Forces
At Bologna

BY SID FEDER

Rome, Nov. 17 (P)—British and Indian troops, closing on the high-way center of Faenza southeast of Bologna, occupied the road junction of Modigliana nine miles south of the city without a fight. They also gained up to a mile the past 24 hours along Route 9 from Forli, it was announced tonight.

Alternate rain and hail storms and temperature in the low twenties virtually stalled other Allied forces on the Italian front, including American troops in the mountains south of Bologna. Bowing to British-Indian pressure, the Germans withdrew from Modigliana secretly after having defended it fiercely for a week. Allied troops who burst into the town yesterday were surprised to find it deserted, with only mines and booby traps to dispute their advance.

British units which fought across the Montone river at Forli pushed about two and a half miles northwest of that city against light resistance from Nazi rearguards. Forli itself was under heavy fire from enemy field guns.

The Mediterranean air forces fought 2,400 sorties yesterday, including attacks by escorted heavy bombers on targets in southern Germany and Austria. Twenty-nine Allied planes were missing, against 10 enemy craft destroyed in all operations.

Telephone Strike Spreads In Ohio

Columbus, O., Nov. 17 (P)—A strike by union telephone operators, which began in war-busy Dayton, crippled communications in nine other cities tonight, and threatened to spread across the state as operators in city after city voted to support the walkout.

Dayton operators, serving the Army's Wright and Patterson field, left their switchboards in protest, unionists said, against the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s practice of hiring out-of-town operators at salary plus expense account. The operators are members of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers, an unaffiliated union.

The stoppage spread quickly to Columbus and Toledo, among larger cities, and also hampered long distance service and manually operated local telephones in Xenia, Tiffin, Findlay, Wellsville, Winchester, Sandusky and East Liverpool. Local dial telephone service in the three larger cities was unaffected.

Patrick J. Hurley May Go To China As Trouble Shooter

Washington, Nov. 17 (P)—Appointment of trouble shooter Patrick J. Hurley as American ambassador to China appeared a strong likelihood tonight.

Both Chinese and American diplomats expressed the opinion that Maj. Gen. Hurley might be able to unravel some of the gravely tangled lines of Chinese-American relations.

He has been handling many of the duties of ambassador in Chungking since last August as personal emissary of President Roosevelt.

The president said today that he had picked a successor of Ambassador Clarence E. Gauss, who resigned at the time General Joseph W. Stilwell was recalled.

Contest In School Spurs Bond Drive

Again this year as a means of sales stimulation, the boys and girls of the freshman class of the high school will again hold their contest as was done in the Fifth War Loan Drive. The boys have challenged the girls in a contest to see which one can sell the most bonds and stamps in the Sixth War Loan Drive. Last year the boys won the contest with a total of $12,087 in bonds and stamps sold while the girls sold a total of $8,348 and the girls entertained with a party given in the school gymnasium.

A total of $20,435.60 in bonds and stamps was sold by the ninth grade last year and the freshman class this year pledged to beat that record. To date in the Sixth War Loan Drive there has been a total of $2600 worth of bonds sold, of this amount the boys are leading with $2350. John Leiphart has sold $1650 in bonds and Dick Oulette is next with $625.

The first bond sold in the Fifth War Loan by a ninth grader was a $50 bond sold by Evelyn Gamble.

As an added incentive the Freshman class sponsor has offered a prize of $3 in stamps to the boy or girl who sells the most bonds and stamps and $2 to the boy or girl who sells the next largest amount. Bill Cook won the $3 prize last year and Donald Thorton took second.

Any person wishing to buy bonds through the ninth grade may call 252 at the high school and a responsible ninth grader will call for the money and deliver the bond at any place in town or in the surrounding vicinity.

Former Au Train Resident Serving In Air Force Cited

Among those honored by a presidential citation bestowed recently on the 48th Fighter Group of the Eighth Air Force stationed somewhere in England was Staff Sgt. Wallace Carrier, 32, of 2100 N. Congress St., Ypsilanti, who is a former resident of Au Train, Mich.

Sgt. Carrier is well known in Munising having attended Mather high school and having been employed here before leaving for Ypsilanti. He enlisted in the Army in March of 1942 and was assigned to the Army Air corps as an aircraft mechanic, after attending an air school in Newark, N. J. Carrier was then sent overseas in the winter of '43 and landed in London during the "blitz" of which he has recounted a few of his experiences. In his recent letters the sergeant says the Allies are really "pouring it on" the Germans in the way of aerial bombardment since D-Day his group often working long hours servicing planes and bombers of the Eighth Air Force.

He has a brother, Sgt. Francis Carrier of the 12th Service Squadron, now stationed somewhere in China for the past 18 months.

Violating Hunters Fined At Munising

Munising—Seven deer hunters, found guilty of violations involving firearms, were fined in justice court before Thomas J. Walters this week following their apprehension in deer areas by conservation officers.

Frank Pauwels and Albert Kacynski, Hart, and Lyle Villessden, Pentwater, each paid fines and court costs amounting to $16.85 for carrying a rifle in a deer area before the opening of the hunting season. Joseph Chartrand, of Melstrand, and Leland Heide, of Cedar Springs, each paid $31.85 for having a loaded gun in an automobile. Carl Norton, Albion, and Floyd Foster, Lansing, paid $16.85 each for having in their possession a shotgun and buckshot loads in game areas before the season opened.

Alger Inductees Go To Milwaukee

Munising—The following registrants have been ordered to report for preinduction examination on Nov. 27. They will go to Milwaukee for examination.

John J. Tervo, Munising; Arthur R. Ikala, Sundell; Toivo E. Luoma, Chatham; Charles E. Altherton, Trautman; Eugene A. Koski, Eben; Norman D. Arman, Au Train; Leslie J. Savola, Trenary; Victor H. Hill, Trenary; Harry W. Fitzgerald, Trenary; Richard A. Mathews, Eben.

James E. Glatius, Munising, has been transferred here from another board and will report with the above group.

The following registrants have been ordered to report for induction on Nov. 29. They will go to Milwaukee.

Robert J. Matson, Detroit; Delbert J. Drake, Munising; Wilfred W. Seglund, Munising; Edwin A. Jokipii, Eben; Richard H. Wood, Grand Marais.

HILTON STEVENS

Hilton Stevens, 60 year old resident of Trenary for the past 18 years, died Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock in St. Mary's hospital after an illness of one year and eight months.

Mr. Stevens was born April 25, 1884, in Toronto, Canada, and previously coming to Trenary, resided in Lewiston, Idaho.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Stevens; his mother, Mrs. Ada Stevens of California; one son, Clayton, U. S. Marine Corps, Oceanside, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Walter Taylor, Limestone; one brother, Clair Stevens, Detroit; and two sisters, Mrs. May Finch, Detroit, and Mrs. William Berg, California.

The body was removed to the Beaulieu and Madison funeral home and will remain there until the time of the funeral, the arrangements of which are incomplete.

British Air Chief Missing In Flight To Asia Command

London, Nov. 17 (P)—Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory and Lady Leigh-Mallory have been missing since Nov. 14 when an airplane in which they were travelling to Southeast Asia did not reach its destination, it was announced tonight.

The air chief marshal was on his way to take up his new appointment as air commander in chief, Southeast Asia command, an air ministry announcement said.

Sir Trafford commanded aerial operations during the invasion of the European continent by the Allies. He had been transferred to the staff of Admiral Louis Mountbatten, supreme commander of the SEAC.

Roosevelt Teacher Is Taken By Death

Groton, Mass., Nov. 17 (P)—The Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody, 87, founder of the exclusive Groton school and for more than half a century its headmaster, died today while out on his customary afternoon automobile ride.

Teacher of President Roosevelt and of the chief executive's sons, Dr. Peabody performed the ceremony when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt were married.

The former Groton headmaster parked his car by the roadside during his customary afternoon drive today and apparently fell into a sleep from which he did not awaken.

Red Cross Workers Ignore War Danger

With The Ninth U. S. Army in Germany, Nov. 16 (Delayed) (P)—War is a man's job, but you can't convince Red Cross workers Ruth Gray of Old Town, Me., and Jane Hibbard of Grand Rapids, Mich., that it is.

Ignoring German shell bursts during the height of the Allied attack today, they drove up to an artillery observation command post and proceeded to hand out doughnuts to the busy G.I's.

Briefly Told

Mrs. Bruce Farley and daughter Sue of Detroit visited recently at the home of Mrs. Edith Beltzer, 320 Ludington street.

Peter Thrubus of Detroit is a guest at the Anthony Chapekis home, 808 Ludington street.

DECISION BANS DETROIT RACES

State Fairgrounds Track
Violating Law, Says
Circuit Judge

Detroit, Nov. 17 (P)—A decision which virtually outlaws horse racing in Michigan was handed down today by Circuit Judge Guy A. Miller, who declared unconstitutional a statute which permits racing at the state fairgrounds track.

Ruling on a preliminary motion in a suit seeking to prevent the Detroit Racing Association and the state racing commission from conducting races at the grounds, Judge Miller termed horse racing "a sucker game" in which the state invited its people to take part "in order that they may be fleeced."

The suit was filed by Edward J. Rohan and his wife, Josephine, who own property within 50 feet of the proposed site of a new wooden horse barn.

It contended that the races constituted a "private and public nuisance" and that the new barn would result in a crowds of "hangers-on, touts and other persons who make their living by their ingenuity."

In his ruling, which paves the way for issuance of a permanent injunction against racing, Judge

Cotton Ed Smith, New Deal Critic, Dies At His Home

Lynchburg, S. C., Nov. 17 (P)—Senator Ellison D. Smith (Cotton Ed), dean of the senate and bitter critic of the New Deal, died suddenly today at his home in this tiny South Carolina town near which he was born 80 years ago.

Death was caused by coronary thrombosis. His son, Farley, said the senator had seemed in good health and had eaten breakfast about an hour before he died while alone in his room at 10:15 a. m. He had planned to return to Washington next week to resume his duties.

Smith established a record for length of senate service when on Aug. 4 he passed the 35 years and five month mark held by the late Senator William B. Allison of Iowa. He tried for a seventh term but was defeated in the Democratic primary last summer by Governor Olin D. Johnston.

Miller denied a motion of the defendants for dismissal of the complaint, and then held the horse racing act of 1933 to be unconstitutional. Ben H. Cole, assistant attorney-general representing the racing commission, stated his intention to appeal the ruling to the state supreme court as soon as the injunction is issued.
